A TRIBUTE

Great without pomp, without ambition
brave,
Proud, not to conquer fellow-men, but save;
Friend to the weak, a foe to none but those
Who plan their greatness on their brethren's woes:
Awed by no titles—undefiled by lust—
Full without faction—obstinately just;
Warm'd by religion's sacred, genuine ray,
That points to future bliss the unerring way:
Yet ne'er controll'd by superstition's
laws,
That worst of tyrants in the noblest cause.

Anon.—

FOREWORD

Two centuries ago there came to us,
In time of need, our father, Washington
Who with those other great courageous men
Made possible for us this great free land
And this dear school which now for him is named.
We wish to bring to you within this book
A brief remembrance of their deeds and works
Which we now carry on, and to present
With the accounts of our achievements,
A reminiscence of their times and lives.
If we renew the reader's deep respect
And gratitude for their fine work,
herein,
Our aim shall then have been accomplished.

DEDICATION

To the great spirit of the colonies,
That glowing spark embedded in staunch hearts;

Fanned by a fervor of idealism,
A hope of better, loftier, finer standards,
Which kindled to a flame of dauntless
courage,

Ambition for a dreamed-of, destined goal,

Steadfastness to a purpose highly aimed;

And persevered through great crises,
led on

By such great men as Washington and his

Contemporaries, who, by their foresight
And patient leadership brought forth
the blaze

Of glory and undying fame,— to them
We dedicate our senior annual.

The flagstaff — throughout time, our flag, symbolic of American freedom and independence, has flown from home and school alike.

The entrance—gateway through which we pass to our daily activities—opening upon opportunities now as in Washington's period.

The staircase — first small and narrow, now broad and ample, expressive of progress in America since the time of Washington.

The library — nucleus of culture and knowledge; center of information and enjoyment in colonial life as in the school today.

Music — representative of culture and fine art in the life of Washington; source of enjoyment and cultural diversion in the life of the student.

*The close — we shall recall our school days with memories
No less tender than those we hold of our forefathers.*

Faculty

Washington's faculty again has eighty-four members. Miss Gerda Wittman, Miss Florence Leota Van Vliet, and Mr. Walter Janisch left the school this year. Miss Van Vliet is now the Chairman of English at Custer High School, while Miss Wittman and Mr. Janisch are teaching at Solomon Juneau High School. Because of illness Miss Nellie Havens and Mr. Guy Bannister have left Washington temporarily. Lessons in music have been discontinued, so we no longer have the part-time teacher, Mrs. Osgood-Moore. To compensate for these losses there are nine new instructors at Washington. In the English department we have Miss Loretto Clarke, Miss Edna Goeden, and Mrs. Edithe Marcks. Miss Clara Huerth is a new instructor in our Art department, as is Miss Ruth Sugden in shorthand and typing. The Bookkeeping department claims Mrs. Josephine Hughes and Mrs. Helen Buffet. Mr. John Cinkosky is a new teacher of history and commercial geography, as well as assistant coach of basketball, football, and intramural sports.

We have ten teachers in the Science department, eight each in the Mathematics and Foreign Language departments, and two in both Speech and Manual Arts. Household Arts and Gym claim one and three instructors respectively. The Art department has five instructors; History, six; English, eighteen; and Commercial, twenty. As may be judged from the number of teachers, the English and Commercial departments have the highest enrollment.

Do you know that our teachers sometimes forget that they are instructors? They have their good times just as we do. In October our faculty had a picnic at Mr. Ewers' farm near Menominee Falls. It was a true "assembly of the clan," for all the faculty wives and children turned out for the fun. For entertainment "the clan" pitched horseshoes, played ball, and participated in various outdoor sports. In December the faculty decided to abandon its annual Christmas party, giving the money for this entertainment to charity.

Faculty

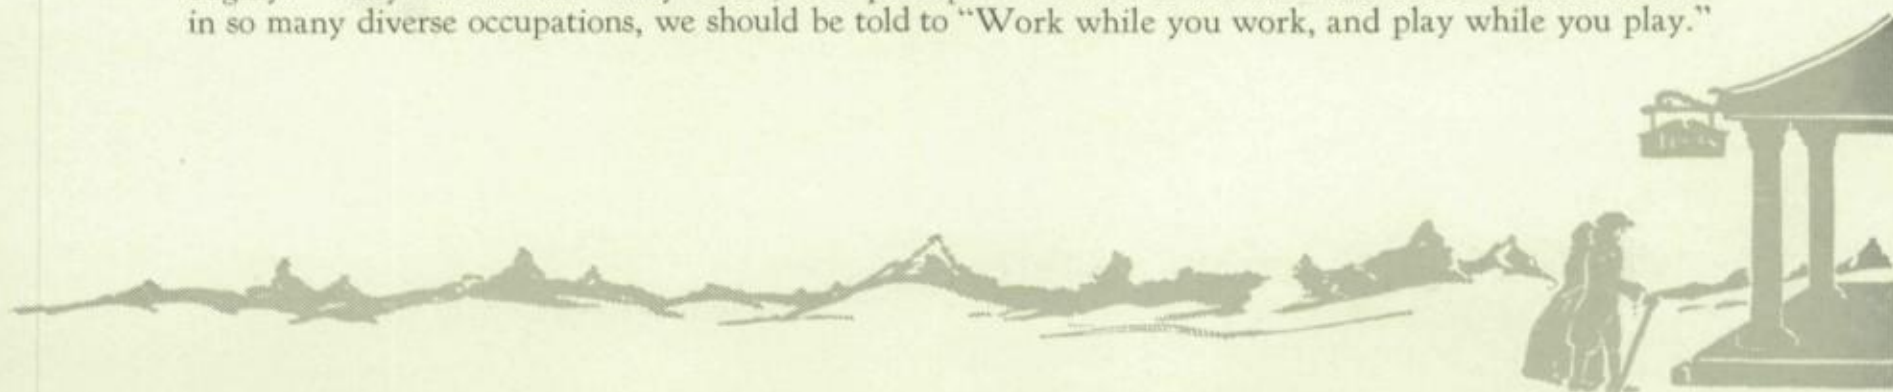

In February our teachers, as members of the Milwaukee Teachers' Association, had a dinner at the Schroeder Hotel followed by a talk on "Why We Laugh Like Human Beings", by Max Eastman. The teachers spend many happy hours in such instructive play.

There are also various clubs to which our faculty members belong, such as the Men's Bowling Club, Ladies' Bowling Club, and Men's Golf Club. The membership in the Ladies' Bowling Club is open to any lady of the faculty. The regular members are the Misses Rose Helen Hauer, Orma Keuper, Marguerite Michi, Norma Zartner, Lillie Spiering, Evelyn Purdy, and Clara Nappe. The club meets on Tuesday afternoons at five o'clock. The members of the Men's Bowling Club challenge teachers from other schools as well as bowling among themselves. The membership includes Mr. Harrison Meyer, Mr. Harry Brown, Mr. Carl Gaenssle, Mr. John Hagberg, Mr. Kenneth Dewey, and Mr. Waldemar Groth. Mr. Johy Mc Cutcheon, Mr. Henry Ericson, and Mr. Harrison Meyer compose the Men's Golf Team.

The faculty not only teaches us the fundamentals, but it also advises us as to our work in school. Each teacher acts as sponsor to a group of students, helping and guiding them. This enables the students to choose their studies wisely and in keeping with their ability. It also brings the teacher into an interesting and intimate contact with the students.

In addition to all these things, our instructors spend much time in the various outside activities, such as our literary and dramatic societies, science and language clubs, and athletic and journalistic activities. In all outside work our critics are very willing to help and very pleasing to work with.

We cannot help wondering how our teachers can do so many things and do them all so thoroughly. They are human "busy bees", and perhaps if we should ask them the secret of their success in so many diverse occupations, we should be told to "Work while you work, and play while you play."

September 1931 Class

"Up from log cabin to the Capitol, one fire was on his spirit, one resolve." And Lincoln succeeded. Just so, has the 1931 September Summer-School Class of twenty-seven fulfilled its resolution by completing the three-year course in two and one-half years.

Mr. Ralph Blair, Faculty Advisor; Kenneth Erdmann, President of the class; Shirley Strauss, Secretary; Harold Cooke, Treasurer; and Hugh Sommer, Sergeant-at-arms, as well as the entire class are to be commended upon their accomplishment.

"Business ability will bring him to success," they said of him, and Milton Zemlyn certainly has lived up to the phrase, for while at Washington he joined the Boys' Club, Alphanea, and became active as a hall monitor. Nothing daunted Milton; he was Vice-president of the Latin Club as well as Assistant Circulating Manager of The Scroll Weekly. Then there is Fred Gerretson, "capable, trustworthy, and ambitious". As a member of Boys' Athletic Association, Sergeant-at-arms of the Camera Club, Scroll-Weekly, and Usher, Fred has made a record for himself.

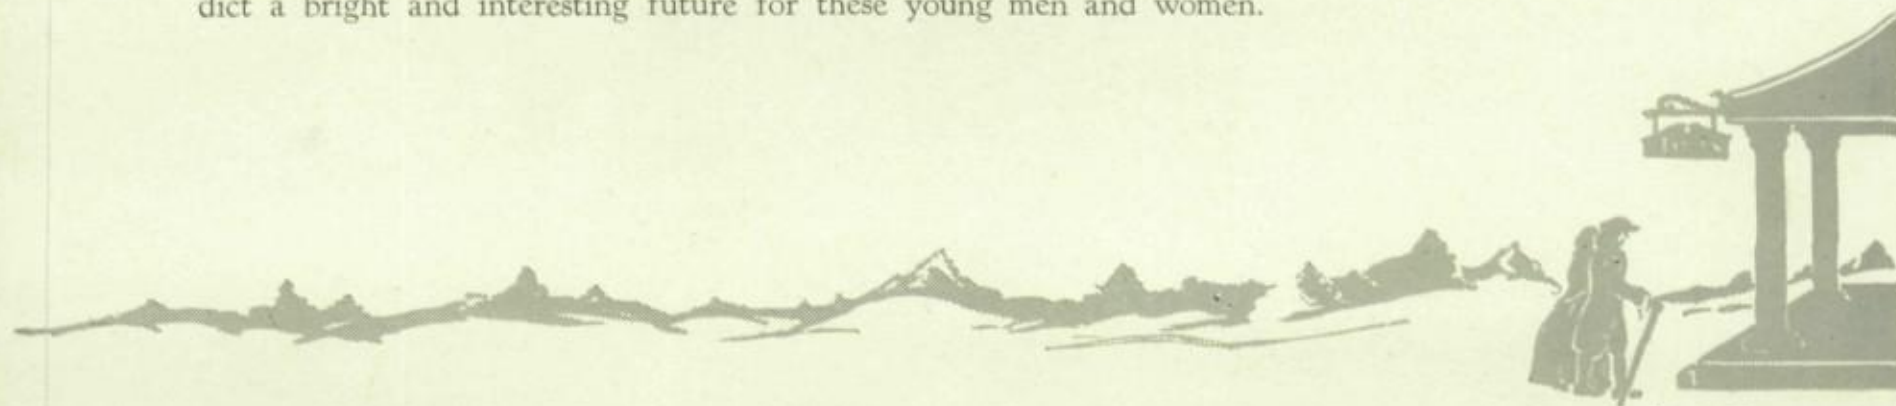

Josephine Cutler, or "Joe" as she was known to all, contributed her share to Washington's social activities. As a sophomore she joined the Junior Dramatic Society. Alphanea, Girls' Club, and Wahiat,—all claim her as a member, although "Nature study was her hobby".

Whenever the Girls' Club held a friendly get-together, one was always sure to see La Verne Eslien, Loretta Gorenstein, Hazel Hansen, Ilse Meyer, Jeanette Schmidt, and Pearl Segall. Evelyn Washburn just says, "Don't trouble me — I'm happy".

Football claimed Earl Geisinger and John Urschitz, while the swimming tank attracted Harold Cooke and Elmer Mott. Tennis always was favored by Howard Gensch and Robert Hass. And how often have we seen Hugh Sommer star as a Cross Country man? Other ardent admirers of Babe Ruth, Bill Tilden, and Red Grange found an outlet for their enthusiasm in the Boys' Athletic Association. They were Lester Bauer, Harry Boorse, Bernard Fox, Milton Holzman, Edward Knepper, Andrew Beinartz, and Jack Siefert.

Among those rendering valuable service to the school as monitors were Nathan Gorenstein and Kenneth Laumann. Hazel Hansen, chairman, Muriel Anderson, and Gladys Stiewe constituted the Class Color and Flower group.

After this glance into the intellectual life and doings of the September Class, we certainly predict a bright and interesting future for these young men and women.

January 1932 Class

"Upward and Onward" is the keyword of the January Class of 1932 under the leadership of the following capable officers: Kenneth Beckman, President; Howard Kron, Vice-president; Gertrude Heinz, Secretary; Joe Tussman, Treasurer; and Walter Cruice, Sergeant-at-arms.

National Honor Society claims thirteen students who were selected because of character, service, leadership, and scholarship. They are Kenneth Beckman, Olive Broetler, Myron Cohen, Lorraine Fischer, Ruth Fisher, Virginia Guntz, Gertrude Heinz, Hazel Holle, Howard Kron, James O'Reagan, Adelbert Rietz, Bernice Schroeder, and Joe Tussman.

Outstanding athletes, contributing much to the first undisputed championship for Washington, are Walter Cruice, Charles Hyink, Kenneth Beckman, Frank Koenig, and Kenneth Moberg.

Intersociety also lays claim to many members of this class. Myron Cohen, Hyman Taxman, Joe Tussman, Grace Weidner, Myrtle Laabs, Howard Kron—all participated in this event.

Quill and Scroll, an International Honor Society for High School Journalists includes Kenneth Beckman, Myron Cohen, Virginia Guntz, Adelbert Rietz, and Dolores Sy.

Service key awards were given to Winifred Behling, infirmary monitor; Myron Cohen, The Scroll literary staff; Mona Collins, The Scroll business staff; Ruth Fisher, library attendant; Donald Raymore, The Scroll literary staff; and Marie Scharer, The Scroll business staff.

This Senior Class assisted in producing the operetta "Up in the Air", in which John Konrad and Grace Weidner took the leading roles.

Seven committees, appointed by the class president, carried out their duties faithfully with the assistance of their critics.

The Scroll Committee consisted of Howard Kron, chairman, Adelbert Rietz, Gertrude Heinz, Virginia Guntz, and Lorraine Fischer. The chairman of the Social Committee was Walter Cruice, assisted by Joe Tussman, Art Davidson, Grace Weidner, and Dolores Sy. James O'Reagan as chairman, Charles Petrie, Myrtle Laabs, and Olive Broetler selected as the class gift a contribution to the fund for mural paintings in Assembly B. The commencement program was arranged by chairman Robert Speth with the aid of Ann Kapp and Harry Wild. The decorating for Commencement was done by Robert Durbrow, chairman, Bob Mueller, Marie Scharer, Ruth Fisher, and Olive Burgardt. Mabel Middleton, chairman, Mildred Richards, and Curvin Smelser chose as class motto, "Upward and Onward"; colors, old rose and silver; and flower, sweet peas.

Miss Caroline Murphy, Mr. Edward Berg, Miss Hazel Handt, and Mr. Arno Froehlich supervised all the work of the class.

June 1932 Class

The June Class of 1932, over four hundred strong, is the largest graduating group Washington has ever had, and many of the members claim the distinction of being the last Freshmen to tread these corridors. The officers are Robert Kroncke, president; Blanche Budinger, vice-president; Jane Henderson, secretary; and Edward Pfistor, treasurer.

Some of the outstanding athletes are Norman Frankenstein, Jack Barlow, Bob Grace, Robert Flood, Wilson Schier, Harry Koller, and Bob Neubauer.

Many Intersociety veterans are among their ranks, including Irene Pappenheim, Irene Dreckmann, Florence Levine, Arthur Schaefer, Gertrude Van Male, Julia Tanner, Max Gordon, Hermoine Lynn, Fred Zusy, and Ivan Trosch. Four more Intersociety debaters—Esther Liebman, Doris Peterman, Robert Kroncke, and Jack Levy—joined the State Debate squad. The other grad on the team was Walter Ricker.

On the Scroll literary staff, Kenneth Prather, editor-in-chief; Edmund Schmidt, managing editor; Lucille Kienzle, feature editor; Alice Gosse, head proofreader; Hermoine Lynn, literary editor; and Julia Tanner, special writer, contributed to the success of the Weekly.

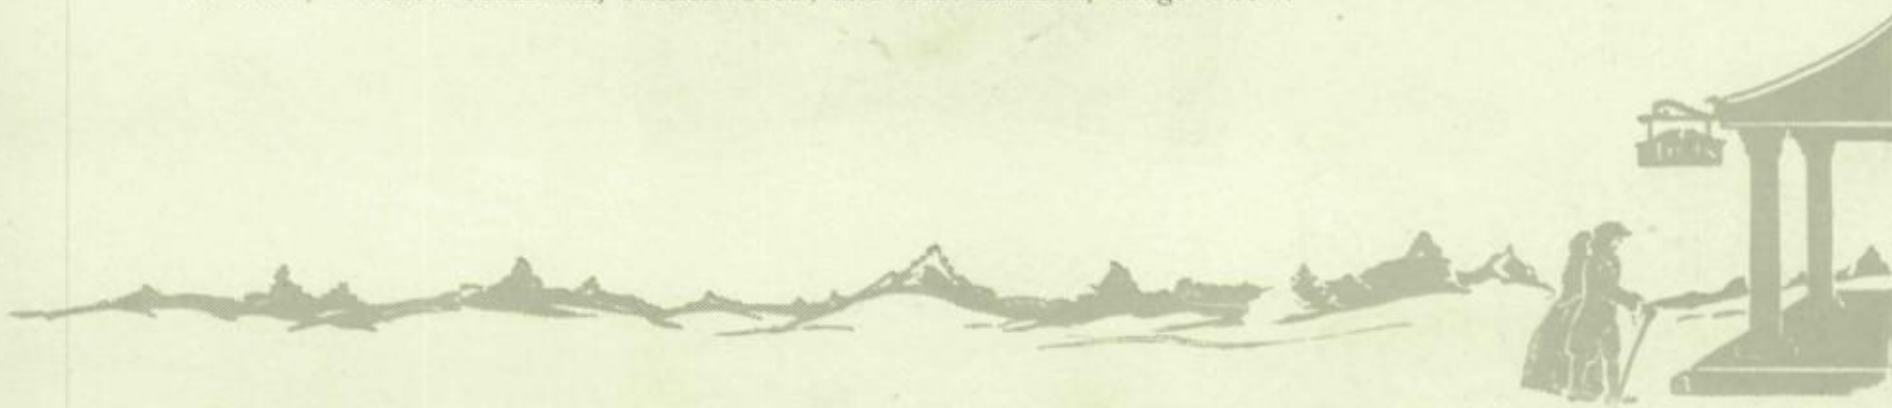

Fred Zusy, business manager; Ruth Rogahn, treasurer; Myrna Catencamp, head bookkeeper; and Gertrude Van Male did fine work on the business staff. The Annual claims Willard Weiser, editor-in-chief; Irene Dreckmann, associate editor; Dorothy Miller, art; Violet Rusch, proof; Irene Pappenheim, organization; Doris Peterman, typist.

Violet Rusch, valedictorian, and Irene Pappenheim, salutatorian, were both very active in extra-curricular work. Outstanding scholarship, character, service, and leadership earned election to the National Honor Society for thirty. The all-senior class play, "Seventh Heaven," presented May 13 and 14, was a huge success.

Two trusty library workers and seven infirmiry attendants are on the list of the grads. The book custodians are Blanche Budinger and Doris Peterman; those leaving the infirmiry are Eileen Hanigan, Dorothy Miller, Gertrude Bartelt, Neoma Tiefenthaler, Irene Pappenheim, Ruth Pillsbury, and Edith Lamboy.

The Class Day committee consisting of Rollin Moede, chairman; Julia Tanner, Helen Burgess, Kathryn Winkelman, and Jack Meyer worked out a novel program depicting the broadcasting of three well-known radio stunts: the Goldbergs; Clara, Lou, and Em; and Kate Smith.

Seniors presiding in some of the societies are Nancy Brown, Student Council; Beverly Gaynor, Girls' Club; Rollin Moede, Alphanea; Eugene Wendelburg, Washington Players; Wilson Schier, Nature Study Club; Jerome Marks, Chemistry Club; Henry Meyer, Camera Club; Walter Ricker, Latin Club; Mildred Schiewitz, French Club; and Earl Laatsch, Stage Crew.

Classes

Undergraduates who are to become the September, 1932, February, 1933, and the June, 1933 graduates are pictured in the following pages of the Annual.

The September class, with Mr. Blair as sponsor, chose the following capable officers: President, Robert Maercklein; Secretary, Carola Reise; and Treasurer, Arno Michaels.

Robert Axt, the competent president of the February, 1933 class, assumed the responsibility of the graduating senior class presidency when Robert Kroncke, June, 1932, bestowed the gavel upon him. Mr. Drake, Mr. Dewey, Miss Nappe, and Miss Scanlan directed the group as class advisers.

The June, 1933 class presidency is held by Robert Cavanaugh. Under his direction and that of the other efficient officers, the class gives promise of an outstanding group of graduates.

Capable leadership, distinctive service, and commendable participation in outside activities marked the progress of the undergraduate classes.

Student Council

Cooperation marked the efforts of the Student Council in carrying on its work under faculty supervision of Miss Green, Mr. Karl Miller, and Mr. McCain; and the student administration of Nancy Brown, President; Elmer Behrens, Vice-President; and Ruth Oehler, Secretary.

During the first semester the Student Council composed, distributed, collected, and checked petitions asking that Washington's athletic field be restricted to school use. The president assisted by two students from athletic groups, presented these petitions to the School Board which rendered a decision favorable to us.

Under the Council's jurisdiction a successful Clothing Relief Drive was promoted.

Committees functioned well. The Point System was amended by the Point System Committee.

The House Committee cared for the trophies and conducted the second Council Open House exhibit.

Nancy Brown, Elmer Behrens, Ruth Oehler

The Executive Committee visited council meeting in other high schools and obtained valuable data.

The Printing Committee printed all the necessary form cards and papers.

During the latter part of the semester an Auditorium Committee laid a foundation to allow as many pupils as possible to participate in auditorium programs, which future councils should complete. The 1931-1932 Student Council fulfilled the obligations set by predecessors and raised the standard of service for which it exists.

National Honor Society

"Why is there such a big sale of Scrolls tonight?" wonders the young Sophomore at Washington when the newly elected members of the National Honor Society are announced. The veteran student can give a ready answer by saying that election to the National Honor Society is one of the greatest compliments which a high school student can receive.

Thirteen students qualified for membership in February and thirty in June. Those of the latter group attended a banquet given in honor of the local branches of the society at State Teachers College on May 9.

Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll is the journalistic honor society to which all members of the Scroll Weekly and Scroll Annual Staffs aspire. Membership in this society, which was founded in 1926 and which, today, has become an international organization, is the highest journalistic honor which can be achieved by a high school student. Membership is granted upon the qualifications of scholarship, journalistic ability, character, and leadership.

In February nine people were elected to this society, and received their awards at a tea. In the spring, thirteen members were elected and were awarded their pins at a Quill and Scroll banquet.

Scroll Annual

Work, fun, worry, joy! Work in the making of a product, fun in the creation, worry over the problems presented, joy in its completion. Thus the Annual staff toiled over the 1932 year book until finally emerged the finished product.

The bi-centennial of the birth of George Washington suggested the theme and dedication. Washington and his contemporaries is the idea embodied. The purpose is to arouse the reader's deep respect and gratitude for Washington and the loyal patriots who blazed the trail to our present democracy. To the spirit of the American colonies which brought forth a leader of men, the faculty critics; Willard Weiser, Editor-in-Chief; and Irene Dreckmann, Associate Editor, decided to dedicate the Annual.

The first semester activity began in room 403, but the second semester found the staff transferred to 311. The art department, under the direction of Miss Lorraine Pollworth, with Dorothy Miller as Art Editor, carried out the theme in the colonial studies. Assistants were Richard Lippold, Dorothy Schach, Violet Bucholtz, and Betty Buschli. Helen Ingraham was responsible for the panel work.

Extra-curricular and departmental articles were handled by Irene Pappenheim, Editor, assisted by her staff. The literary department, headed by Eileen Curtin, carried out the Annual theme in the foreword, dedication, and view section. The assistants were Louise Muench and Elaine Coapman. Miss Leila Rosenfeld supervised the work of the literary staffs.

The task of reproducing athletic activities rested in the capable hands of Alex Le Grand and Victor Ludwig, Co-Sport Editors, who were assisted by Alma Bell and supervised by Mr. Eldon Schneller, faculty critic.

Errors of all types were carefully eradicated by the proof department, consisting of Violet Rusch, Editor, Dorothy Finger, Naomi Meyer, Reva Laufer, Jeanette Lindow, and Ruth Thomas. The typists who "clicked the keys" were Doris Peterman and Mabel Piper.

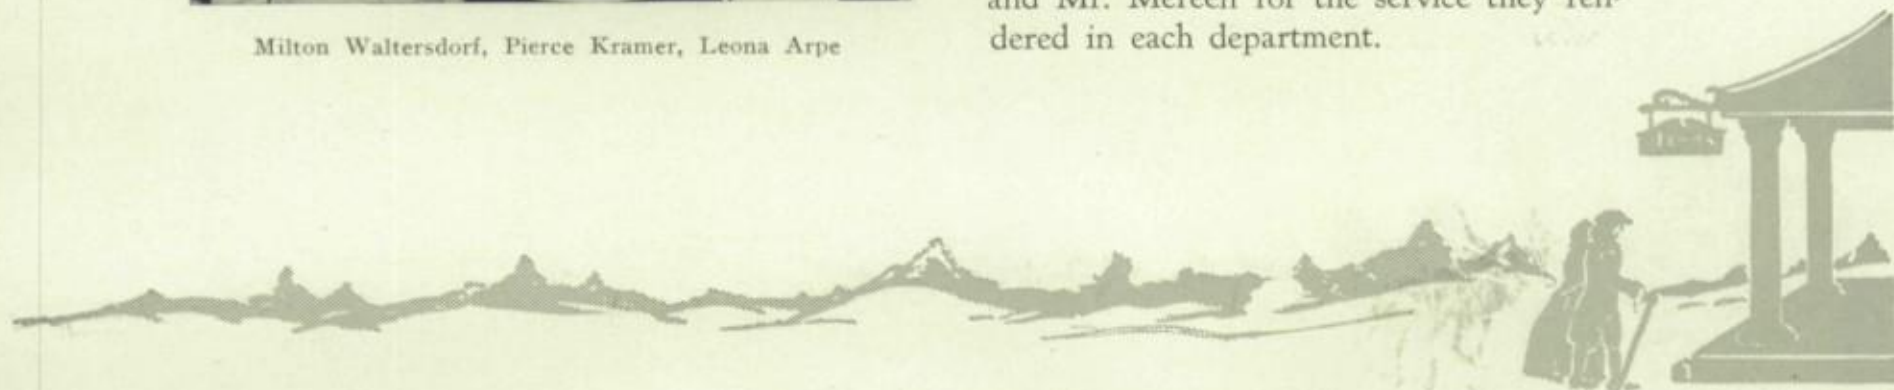

Interesting camera studies were made by the photography staff, directed by Mr. Donald Mereen, and including Robert Weiscopf, Viola Poland, Rudolph Thierfelder and Henry Mayer.

To the business department fell the task of keeping the Annual financially "on its feet". The work was executed by Milton Waltersdorf, Business Manager; Leona Arpe, Circulation Manager; and Pierce Kramer, Publicity Manager, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Blair and Mr. Lillard Culver.

With the completion of this book, the Annual staff expresses its sincere appreciation to the student body for its cooperation and to Mr. Lillard Culver, Miss Rosenfeld, Mr. Schneller, Miss Pollworth, Mr. Blair, and Mr. Mereen for the service they rendered in each department.

Scroll Weekly

Progress and improvement were the keynotes of the Scroll Weekly activity from September 1931 to June 1932. With the adoption of a seven column paper in January, the publication took on a new form and appearance. At that time the glossy paper, formerly used, was exchanged for a new, unglazed, professional type called news print.

During the first semester the destinies of the paper were guided by Kenneth Prather, Editor-in-Chief, and his capable board of editors: Myron Cohen, news; Roger Le Grand, sport; Naomi Bernstein, headline; Julia Tanner, beat; Dolores Sy, organization; Edmund Schmidt, cut; Edward Farber, feature; Jack Levy, humor; Hermoine Lynn, literary; Alice Gosse, proof; Kenneth Braun, typing; and Donald Raymore, publicity.

Marie Sharer as business manager directed the business end of the Scroll during the first semester, with her assistants: Mona Collins, advertising manager; Ruth Rogahn, treasurer; Myrna Catencamp, head bookkeeper; Fred Zusy, circulation manager; and Edward Stein, collection manager.

In February, Kenneth Prather continued as Editor-in-Chief; the literary, sport, headline, proof, and typing departments retained the first semester editors. Edmund Schmidt took over the news editorship; Robert Veenendaal, beat; William Van Roo, organization; George Feinberg, publicity; Edward Farber, humor; Lucille Kienzle, feature; Roger Hoffman, exchange; and Franklin Austin, cut. Eileen Curtin and Julia Tanner held the newly created positions as special writers.

Scroll Weekly

Fifteen of Miss Hauer's first semester newswriting class gained places in room 317 after the February graduation. They were Mary Meixner, Ralph Frank, Audrey Thayer, Esther Hianny, Joyce Lochen, Herbert Sonnenberg, Ruth Stiemke, Doris Kugler, Betty Jackson, Lois Clemens, Phyllis Hutton, Jane Thomas, Marjorie Heinmiller, Martha English, and Ralph Houseman. Marion Schmitz and Eva Schram were on the waiting list.

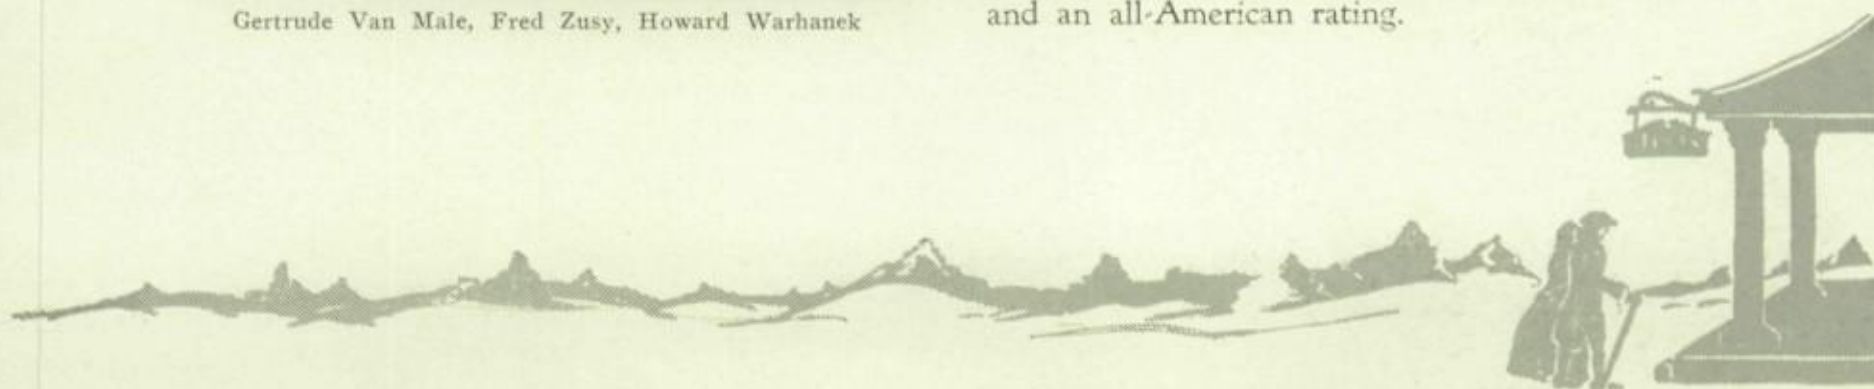

After graduation Fred Zusy assumed the position of business manager. Howard Warhanek took over the management of the circulation department, and Edward Stein remained as collection manager. Ruth Rogahn and Myrna Catencamp retained their former positions, and Gertrude Van Male directed the advertising staff.

From September 1931 Miss Rose Helen Hauer, Miss Edna Goeden, Mr. Eldon Schneller, and Miss Ilma Zinns guided the literary work of the Scroll. Mr. Ralph Blair succeeded Mr. Guy Bannister as critic of the business department, and Mr. Donald Mereen directed Scroll photography. Principal George Balzer was general adviser and critic of the literary staff.

Throughout the entire year, the Scroll staff sought to achieve prompt and accurate reporting, interesting style in writing, diversified and attractive page make-up, and an all-American rating.

Washington Players

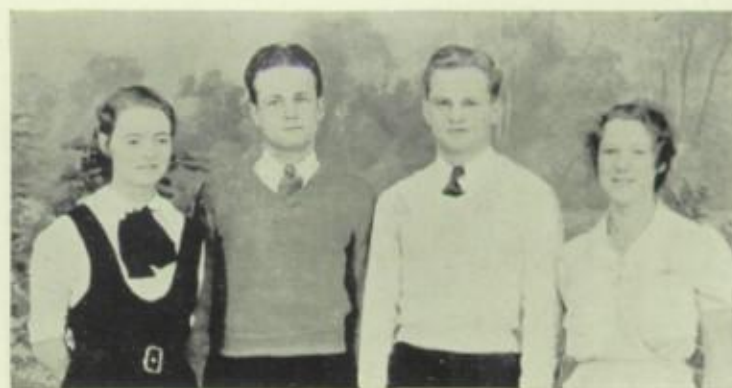

The Washington Players have completed a year that brought with it a public appearance outside of school, a new group system of presenting workshop programs, and two demonstrations for other high school dramatic groups.

A Homecoming stunt depicting a scene in Hades was the first of the year's appearances before the school. So successful was the idea that it was used as the basis of a stunt given by the Players at the National Conference of English Teachers which met in Milwaukee.

A series of tableaux of French war scenes was given on Armistice Day and repeated for Open House on November 13. Later this program was used as a basis for demonstrating tableaux productions to a group of Lincoln High School students and teachers.

At an auditorium meeting before the Christmas vacation, the Players presented "The Enchanted Christmas Tree" by Percival Wilde. On January 27 there was a costume party at Julia Kuhlig's dancing studio. Graduating Players gave a side-splitting playlet, "The First Rehearsal", by Nathan Hiken. Each Player gave a stunt in keeping with his character, and Miss Kuhlig gave a lesson in the tango.

Among the outstanding workshop plays were "The Grand Cham's Diamond", "The Trysting Place", "One "Egg", "Op o Me Thumb", "The Pot Boiler", "Mary Says What She Thinks", Good Medicine", "The End of the Trail", and "The Siege".

During the second semester the club was divided into seven groups, each headed by an experienced member who was to furnish one program. The group leaders—Jack Meyer, Gertrude Bartlett, Arthur Schaefer, Jane Davenport, Pierce Kramer, Helen Burgess, and Walter Ricker—did splendid work in coaching and arranging rehearsals. A group of teachers and students from Custer High School, interested in forming a dramatic club, came to observe one of the Player meetings at which "The Intruder" was given and "The Minuet" by Louis Parker.

Off for "Seventh Heaven"

The grand finale of the year came in the senior class play, "Seventh Heaven", by Austin Strong, presented May 13 and 14. Ruth Oehler as Diane and Robert Kroncke as Chico played the leading parts. The cast supporting them consisted of Walter Ricker in the part of Brissac; Jack Meyer, Boul; Jack Levy, the Rat; Grace Swearingen, Nana; Grace Hammes, Arlette; Marshall Munz, Recan; Gertrude Bartlett, Aunt Valentine; Elias Garfinkel, Uncle Georges; Jerome Marks, Gobim; Max Gordon, Blonde; Walter Johnson, Pere Chevillon; and Ivan Trosch, Sergeant of Police.

Junior Dramatic Society

Plays, pantomimes, and fascinating lessons on make-up, together with valuable criticisms on stage etiquette from Mrs. Boundey, helped make an enjoyable and successful year for the Junior Dramatic Society.

This society is for sophomores and unless the applicants for membership exceed sixty, no tryouts are held for entrance. A recommendation from former teachers is necessary.

The officers elected were Howard Glinberg, President; Myrla Rich, Vice-president; Ruth Thomas, Secretary; Verna Butzer, Treasurer; and Allan Thurwachter, Sergeant-at-arms. Wesley Ward succeeded Myrla Rich; Enola Brandt, Ruth Thomas, and Maxine Dannenfelser, Verna Butzer the second semester.

The plays enjoyed by the entire club were "Mimi Lights the Candle", "The Blackball", "Solemn Pride", and "Allison's Lad".

The second semester opened with "Solemn Pride" given before the school on Lincoln's birthday.

Chemistry Club

Ever since the first Chemistry club meeting in 1926, that organization has done its best to give the members educational and versatile programs.

The first semester officers: Jerome Kahn, President; Jerome Marks, Vice-president; Margaret Williams, Secretary-Treasurer; Erwin Karrow, Sergeant-at-arms; and the second semester cabinet: Jerome Marks, President; Everton Dibb, Vice-president; Lorraine Gramlow, Secretary-Treasurer; and Sydney Wynn, Sergeant-at-arms, have ably fulfilled the purpose of furthering interest in Chemistry at Washington.

During the last year, talks and demonstrations on "Colored Fireworks", "Solid Carbon Dioxide", "Glass Blowing", "Sulphur", "Spectrum Analysis", and "Silvering of Mirrors", were given by Mr. Pestalozzi, critic of the organization; Mr. Beyer, of the Milwaukee Glass Company, Guy Wiley '31, Jerome Kahn, and Jerome Marks.

Films on the "Manufacture of Abrasives", and "The Story of Leather" were also shown and explained.

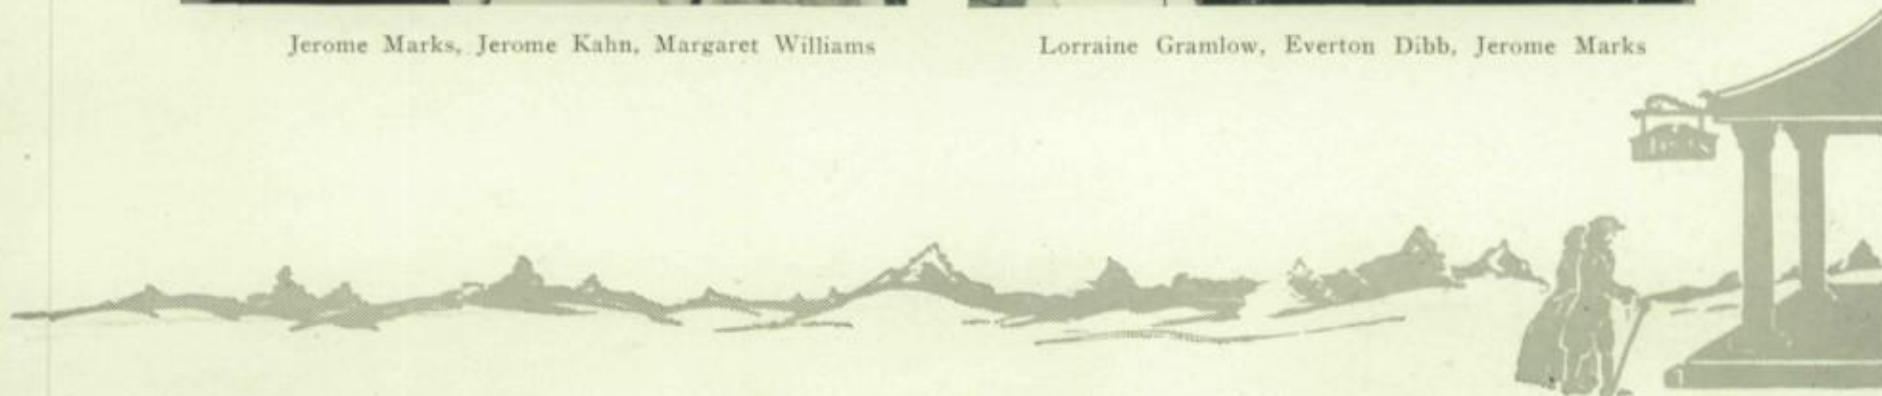

Thus, many of the mysteries of Chemical Science were revealed and enjoyed by the club members.

Alphanea

Although "hard times" might have ravaged the outside world, Alphanea has continued to make great strides during the past year along with the regular work of orations, readings, and debates, the society, as in years past, was the center of friendliness and sociability.

Programs of all sorts, including timely debates, humorous readings, and a lively response at meetings, were characteristic of the trend. The three critics, Miss Orma Keuper, Miss Madge Houghton, and Miss Ruth Hardaker, worked hand in hand with the cabinet composed of Chester Niebler, who sat in the executive chair; Virginia Guntz, deviser of entertaining programs; Gertrude Heinz, our Andrew Mellon; Marie Sharer, who read the progress; Janet Olson, who sought only the best students for us; Rollin Moede, famous for mixed mixers; Andrew Spheeris, who produced interesting, catchy posters; and Paul Klabunde, who policed the meeting room.

Graduation, as usual, took some Alphaneans from our midst. Of the seven graduates Gertrude Heinz and Virginia Guntz received honor pins for their outstanding work in Alphas.

But there is more to Alphanea than routine. The two mixers held during the first semester demonstrated careful planning and sociability, and the music afforded by the society's orchestra was inviting and inspiring.

Alphanea

Alphanea did not place first in Intersociety, but her contestants worked untiringly. The affirmative team was composed of Doris Peterman, Chester Niebler, William Bowman, and George Feinberg, alternate, while Irene Pappenheim, Irene Dreckmann, Herbert Sonnenberg, and Fred Zusy, alternate composed the negative. Jack Meyer and Sydney Rich did their bit on orations, while Helen Burgess and June Ernst came through with flying colors for the readers. Alphs won the ticket sale, too, so it was really a "battle royal".

On Lincoln's birthday the new cabinet was ushered into service. In conjunction with the Washington Bicentennial, the new officers, Rollin Moede, President; Herbert Sonnenberg, First Vice-president; Helen Lipschutz, Second Vice-president; Bob Cavanaugh, Third Vice-president; Helen Ingraham, Secretary; Fred Zusy, Treasurer; Bernard Leibovitz, Sergeant-at-arms; and Sydney Rich, Ambassador, pledged themselves to live up to the standards of that patriot.

Rollin Moede, Helen Ingraham, Fred Zusy, Herbert Sonnenberg

The adoption of the by-law to give outgoing presidents a gavel in recognition of their office was in order with Alphanea's march to success. A novel idea instituted by the spring cabinet was a guest day on which every member was entitled to bring a guest to the meeting.

All in all, Alphanea has marked the close of a successful year.

Lincoln

Education mixed with recreation has made the past year not only worthwhile but enjoyable to Lincolmites. Critics, officers, and committees deserve praise for the peppy meetings, the enlarged membership, and the friendly spirit of comradeship among the members. Washington's youngest literary society has well fulfilled its purpose of giving training in oratory, reading, and debating.

Debates were of a varied interest, ranging from such weighty questions as, Resolved: That the nations adopt a policy of complete disarmament, except for forces needed as police—to local problems such as the one, Resolved: That interscholastic basketball should be carried on in Milwaukee schools. No semester would be complete without an occasional humorous debate, and the last two semesters were no exceptions. Resolved: That the hanging of stockings at Christmas time should be abolished, was an outstanding "funny-bone tickler" that put the Lincolmites in a mirthful mood for Christmas vacation. Readings, orations, biographical sketches, and current events added to the variety of the programs. Music also played a large part in the entertainment and talented artists offered numerous selections.

During the first semester Howard Kron conducted the meetings; Hermoine Lynn planned the programs; Robert Zein posted the announcements of the meetings; Elizabeth Berthel wrote the minutes; Olive Broetler collected the dues; Hazel Holle arranged the mixers; Robert Axt was Council Representative; and John Vollmer, Sergeant-at-arms. The second semester cabinet consisted of Robert Veenendaal, President; Beatrice Groelle, First Vice-president; Beatrice Wolf, Second Vice-president; Pearl Larson, Secretary; Max Gordon, Treasurer; Phillip Jacobson, Sergeant-at-arms; Hermoine Lynn, Ambassador; and Nathan Pasch, Council Representative.

Again Lincoln claimed many outstanding members—the valedictorian and salutatorian of the February class, six out of the thirteen elected to the National Honor Society, and several outstanding members of the Scroll staff.

Four of the mid-year class received honor pins for outstanding service as officers, Intersociety participants, and contributors to the programs. They were Hazel Holle, Bernice Schroeder, Howard Kron, and Joe Tussman. Other February graduates were Olive Broetler, Myron Cohen, Marion Pengally, Louise Purnell, Grace Weidner, Charlotte Winnecour, Robert Zein, and Joe Schmidling.

Max Gordon, Robert Veenendaal, Beatrice Groelle, Pearl Larson

June graduates were Blanche Budinger, Naomi Bernstein, Arthur Cohen, Irene Fina, Max Gordon, Jack Levy, Virginia Liske, Hermoine Lynn, James Muckle, Nathan Pasch, Lorraine Pawlitzke, Harold Schultz, Jean Strassman, Julia Tanner, and Gertrude Van Male.

Credit for Lincoln's successful year belongs to the three critics: Miss Purdy, Miss Thompson, and Mr. Groth.

Philomatheia

Interest, work, and capable leadership! These three elements characterized Philomatheia's year of successful activity.

The capable leadership of the first semester rested in the hands of Norman Schober, President; Pierce Kramer, First Vice-president and program chairman; Sidney Wynn, Second Vice-president and chairman of the press committee; Ruth Fisher, Third Vice-president and chairman of the membership committee; Florence Levine, Ambassador and chairman of the social committee; Edward Stein, Treasurer; Walter Felber, Sergeant-at-arms; and Esther Liebman, Secretary.

Since Philomatheia's primary interest centers in literary enterprise, the club sponsored debates, humorous and serious, which provided entertainment and instruction at the meetings. Questions ranging from the evils of the machine age to Empress Eugenie hats, from disarmament to hitch-hiking were debated.

An interesting program feature was "The Artist", coached by Jane Davenport and played by Blanche Todes and Walter Ricker. In honor of the seniors, the last program of the semester consisted of a mock trial written by Donald Raymore and coached by Delores Sy. The cast included the graduating seniors, Muriel Berman, Loraine Fischer, Donald Raymore, Dorothea Eggert, Ruth Fischer, Curvin Smelzer, Robert Speth, Hyman Taxman, and Winifred Behling.

Then in November came Intersociety.

Philomatheia

With the hard work of the contestants and the cooperation of the club, Philomatheia won its fourth straight intersociety victory.

As January closed the first semester, Philomatheia awarded pins and emblems, expressive of appreciation for distinguished service. Ruth Fisher and Myrtle Laabs received pins; Curvin Smelzer and Hyman Taxman, emblems.

The destiny of the second semester was guided by William Van Roo, President; Esther Liebman, First Vice-president; Mary Meixner, Second Vice-president; Marion Caspari, Third Vice-president; Margaret Hansen, Secretary; Ralph Frank, Treasurer; Neoma Tiefenthaler, Ambassador; and John Peterson, Sergeant-at-arms.

Philomatheia's tribute to George Washington and Abraham Lincoln was given in program features. "Abraham Lincoln" a playlet celebrating the Lincoln anniversary, and a patriotic reading commemorating the bicentennial of Washington were presented.

Ralph Frank, William Van Roo, Esther Liebman, Margaret Hansen

Among the interesting debates of the second semester was one on a timely subject, Resolved: that Milwaukee County should institute the voucher system in the distribution of supplies for the needy. Throughout the entire year, Harold Klatz, violinist, and Eva Stroiman, pianist, gave freely of their musical ability.

Under the capable direction of its critics, Miss Hazel Handt, Miss Marian Scanlan, and Mr. Walter Candy, Philomatheia completed a most satisfactory and successful year.

Top Row: Allen Thurwachter, Doris Peterman, Robert Kroncke, Mr. Maule, William Bowman, Mr. Dewey, Walter Ricker, Chester Niebler.

With "unemployment" and "depression" on everybody's tongue, the state debaters chose as their subject a timely one—unemployment insurance—the same subject which had been considered during the earlier Intersociety Contest.

After two months of intensive preparation and consequent competition for places, two tryouts were required to determine who were to constitute the teams. Those finally selected were, Affirmative: Jack Levy, captain, Doris Peterman, Margaret Hansen, and Chester Niebler, alternate; Negative: Robert Kroncke, captain, Walter Ricker, Esther Liebman, and Max Gordon, alternate.

Both teams started off successfully, the Negative defeating a strong Kenosha team and the Affirmative conquering Two Rivers. In the second round both our squads overcame Lincoln's two teams. These successes placed Washington among the three undefeated schools in the southern section. Later, the Affirmative was beaten by Kenosha, although the negative vanquished Hartford.

In conjunction with the preceding year's plans for preparatory training of new material, a second team was organized composed of Florence Levine, William Bowman, Herbert Sonnenberg, George Feinberg, Allan Thurwachter, and Faye Scheier.

Much of the creditable record of our teams in the state series is attributable to the efficient tutelage of the coaches, Mr. Howard Maule and Mr. Kenneth Dewey.

Forensics

Persons who can speak well are in constant demand. Washington offered special training in speech through both State Debate and Forensic work.

So enthusiastic were the pupils that over one hundred signed up. All but six were eliminated early in the contests, and later three from each of the four branches were selected. Helen Burgess, Kathleen Foley, and Dorothea Marbes comprised the declaiming roster; Beatrice Groelle, Syd Rich, and Arthur Schaefer were the orators; George Feinberg, Jack Levy, and Chester Niebler, the extemporaneous speakers; while George Ellis, Leah Trosch, and Kathryn Winkelman were included in extemporaneous reading.

In a closely contested local meet, the judges awarded their decisions to Syd Rich, orator; Helen Burgess, declaimer; Chester Niebler, extemporaneous speaker; and Kathryn Winkelman, extemporaneous reader.

On April 22, Washington's representatives journeyed to Lincoln High where Helen Burgess, Kathryn Winkelman, and Chester Niebler were successful. On April 29, the three winners participated in the District Contest at the State Normal School, where they received a second and two thirds respectively.

They worked for Washington.

Though the contestants advanced no further, the experience gained was worth the effort. Under the direction of Mr. Maule, Mr. Dewey, and Miss Thompson, these representatives received the valuable speech training.

Physics Club

A successful semester rewarded the efforts of the officers of the Physics Club during the term beginning September, 1931, in which the membership totaled seventy-two. The officers were Harvey Wendorf, President; Harold Munro, Vice-president; and Milton Waltersdorf, Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Drake was the critic.

The programs brought many noted speakers. Mr. Smead of the University Extension spoke on "Television"; Mr. Monson of the Nash Motor Car Company on "Synchro-Mesh Transmission and Freewheeling"; and Mr. Fraser of the School of Engineering on "Neon Signs". Other interesting speakers were Mr. Case of Madison, Mr. Trier of the Curtiss Wright Airport, and Mr. Coffman of the Wisconsin News.

A demonstration of a miniature rocket car was given by Chester Niebler, and "Electromagnetism" was demonstrated by Harold Munro. Club members participated in an Edison Memorial Program.

Nature Study Club

The principal work of the Nature Study Club is to help preserve Wisconsin wild life. Thus far, it has aided by caring for eighty-five purchased ducks and one-hundred drakes, the latter a gift of the Isaac Walton League. The ducks were placed in the Juneau Park Lagoon last spring. This activity, including tree-planting, has progressed satisfactorily under Mr. Karl F. Miller, faculty critic.

The programs have been enriched and enlivened by prominent speakers affiliated with the Museum and the Isaac Walton League. The talks have concerned Wisconsin Mammals and wild-life, and included moving pictures.

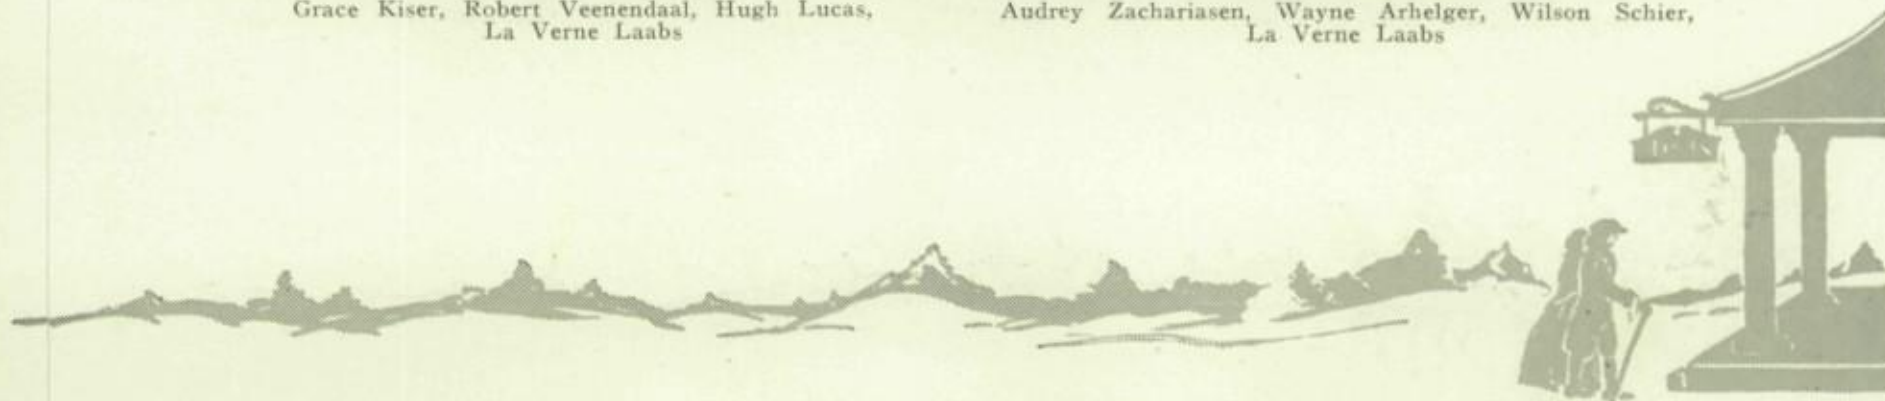

Of course, the activities also include hikes, some of which have been to Fairy Chasm, various parks, and the Milwaukee River. At the latter, after a frantic search for ice, a merry hockey game ensued.

Intersociety

Capable execution characterized the sixth triangular intersociety contest held at Washington November twentieth between Alphanea, Lincoln, and Philomatheia. The question for debate—Resolved: That the several states should enact legislature providing for compulsory unemployment insurance—was a new departure in that it was the 1932 state debate question.

In the auditorium the Philomatheia affirmative debaters were Hyman Taxman, William Van Roo, Margaret Hansen, and Marion Caspari, alternate. The Lincolmites were Max Gordon, Robert Veenendaal, Myron Cohen, and Elizabeth Berthel, alternate. Lincoln's reader was Grace Weidner; its orator, Howard Kron. Arthur Schaeffer orated and Margaret Blumenfeld read for Philo.

In A, Alphanea's negative team consisted of Irene Pappenheim, Irene Dreckmann, Herbert Sonnenberg, and Fred Zusy, alternate. Lincoln's debaters were Julia Tanner, Hermoine Lynn, Jack Levy, and Seymour Horwitz, alternate. The orator for Lincoln was Joe Tussman; the reader, Gertrude Van Male. Sidney Rich orated and June Ernst read for Alphanea.

In B, Jack Meyer orated and Helen Burgess read for Alphanea. Philomatheia's orator was Pierce Kramer; its reader Myrtle Laabs. The debaters were Florence Levine, Esther Liebman, Robert Kroncke, and Ivan Trosch, alternate, for Philomatheia; Doris Peterman, Chester Niebler, William Bowman, and George Feinberg, alternate, for Alphanea. All contestants performed creditably, but Philomatheia was again declared victor.

Camera Club

"Turn your head a little to the right. Now, quiet for ten seconds. There, it's taken!" These directions, followed carefully, give the Camera Club members good pictures. The chief purpose of the club is to show the members what they can do with their cameras. At the first meeting, those present took pictures of one another. Other meetings were devoted to developing pictures taken at the first meeting, printing, painting, and enlarging them. All these meetings were conducted by students.

The second semester was devoted to different types of photography. The officers of the first semester were Burdette Brandt, President; Henry Mayer, Vice-president; Edna Stuerzer, Secretary; Olive Geisinger, Treasurer; Gertrude Bartelt, Council Representative; and Rudolph Thierfelder, Sergeant-at-arms. The second semester all officers except the Vice-president and Council Representative retained their positions. The latter positions were filled by Sydney Cohen and Robert Weiscopf respectively.

Olive Geisinger, Edna Stuerzer, Burdette Brandt, Henry Mayer

Any student owning a camera may join the Camera Club. The Annual and Scroll photographers are chosen from the club's ranks. These photographers for the last year were Bob Weiscopf and Viola Pohland. Assistants were Henry Mayer and Rudolph Thierfelder. The critic, Mr. Mereen, was an enjoyable playfellow on all of the hikes, which were held monthly.

Latin Club

Societas Latina, under the direction of Mr. Johnson, critic, has experienced a most successful year. The officers for semester one were Esther Liebman, President; Howard Warhanek, First Vice-president; Franklin Austin, Second Vice-president; Florence Levine, Secretary; Robert Veenendaal, Treasurer; Ralph Frank, Sergeant-at-arms. The semester two cabinet was composed of Walter Ricker, President; Esther Hianny, First Vice-president, Charlotte Kupper, Second Vice-president; Elizabeth Berthel, Secretary; Ralph Frank, Treasurer; Pierce Kramer, Sergeant-at-arms.

One of the outstanding programs was an organ recital by Mr. Smith who explained differences between ancient Latin and modern music. A talk by Mr. Gaenssle on the conflict of Christianity with the Roman Empire was another feature.

During the second half-year, programs appropriate to the Ides of March and Leap Year were presented. According to tradition the Eta Sigma Phi award to the year's best Virgil student was presented.

French Club

One of Washington's newly organized societies is Le Cercle Francais. Meetings are held bi-weekly, and under the guidance of Miss Lorna Murphy, club critic, the French Club saw a successful first year.

In the first semester Milton Paris served as President; Jean Strassman, Vice-president; Mildred Schiewitz, Dramatic-coach; Grace Rawley, Secretary; Miriam Peck, Council Representative; and Lorraine Pivar, Treasurer.

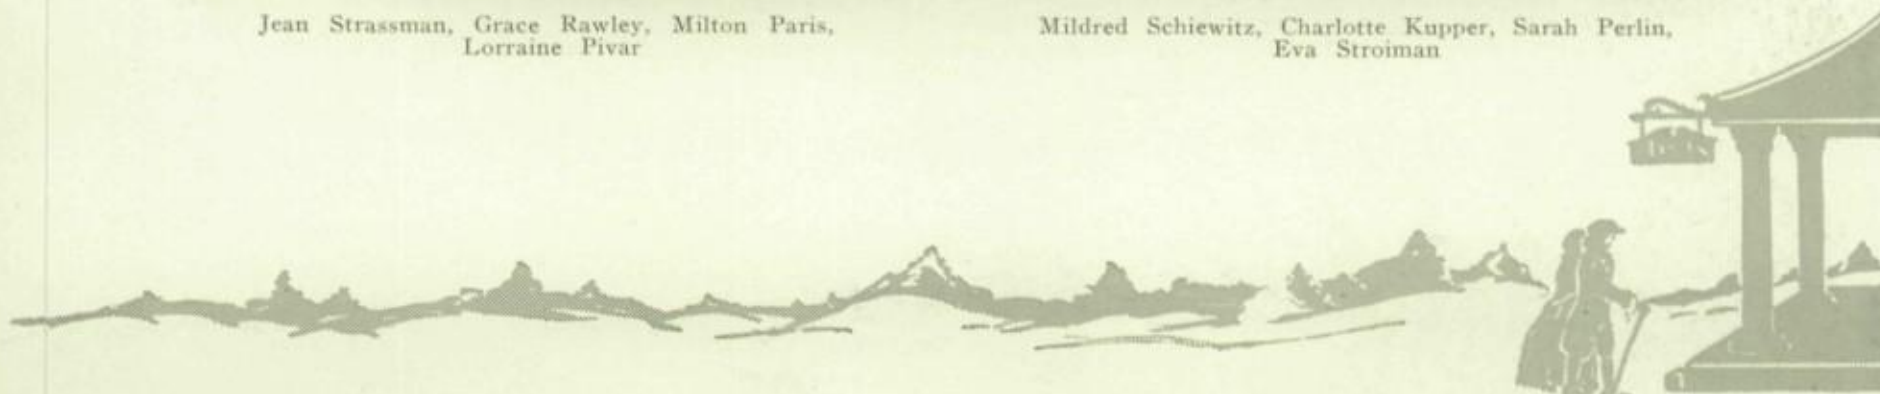

The second semester was marked with an extensive membership drive. Mildred Schiewitz, President; Sarah Perlin, First Vice-president; Helen Burgess, Dramatic-coach; Jeanette Marks, Second Vice-president; Eva Stroiman, Secretary; Grace Rawley, Council Representative; Charlotte Kupper, Treasurer; and Milton Griesberg, Sergeant-at-arms, were the officers from February to June.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club, which was organized last fall under the supervision of Mr. John Hagberg, passed through its first semester as an informal organization but was made a formal one in 1932. Its membership is not restricted to Spanish students, and anyone interested in Spanish is welcome to join. Meetings are held every other Thursday. Its purpose is to get a more thorough knowledge of the language, the country, the customs, and the people than can be obtained in class.

For the first semester the officers were Arthur Davidson, chairman, and Verna Jaehnig, Secretary. Joyce Robinson, Marion Tronsen, and Elmer Behrens comprised the program committee. The officers for the second semester were Marion Imse, President; Alan Loebel, Vice-president; Janet Mueller, Secretary-Treasurer; and Arthur Cohen, Council Representative.

The programs consisted of a talk by Mr. Hagberg on "The Origin of the Spanish Language"; illustrated lectures by both Mr. Hagberg and Mrs. Hagberg which were interesting and informative; short plays presented in Spanish and English; and poems read in Spanish. The programs were very beneficial and helped the members to obtain a clearer understanding of that distant country, Spain.

May El Club Español continue as successfully as it has begun!

German Club

An unusually successful semester rewarded the efforts of enthusiastic students to re-organize the oldest language club of Washington, the German Club. Under the leadership of Miss Bertha L. Senti, it promises to become an outstanding organization.

Its purpose is to promote the use of the German language and German ideals such as thoroughness, courtesy, and sociability, which will be of educational advantage to students, as all meetings are conducted exclusively in the German language and on this basis.

The first meeting held was attended by a very large number of students eager to support the organization, and of these about 90 became active members. In its successive meetings officers were elected, committees appointed, and a constitution drawn up. The officers for the semester were Emma Jungton, President; Marjorie Reichwald, Vice-president; Erna Koller, Secretary; Ruth Rogahn, Treasurer; and Rudolph Thierfelder, Sergeant-at-arms.

The semester's outstanding program was devoted to the commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the death of Germany's greatest poet, Goethe, (1749-1832). At this meeting synopses of several of Goethe's plays and selections from Faust and some of his poems were presented. In conclusion an enjoyable mixer was given for the members of all language clubs.

Tennis Club

The Tennis Club, during its comparatively short existence, has produced many tennis stars: Milton (Ikey) Ruehl, State High School Champion, Laurence Feary, Richard Weigler, Gene Arenson, and Henry De Boer as well as many others. The team played St. John's and defeated them by a score of five-two, thereby giving the latter its first defeat in seven years. Our team also played Riverside, North, Pio Nono, Shorewood, and Racine Washington Park, conquering them all and earning for themselves the title of city champions. Although our team did not win the State Championship meet at Madison, a member of the team, Ikey Ruehl, won the singles. The doubles team composed of Weigler and De Boer was defeated in a bitterly contested match at Manitowoc. Another of Washington's tennis parleys was a fall tennis tournament won by Cy Horwitz. Washington's hopes for a State Championship team for this year are based on Weigler, Horwitz, Reisler, Brunt, and Paris.

Golf Club

Despite an apparent lack of interest early in the year on the part of student golf enthusiasts, the 1931 season was one of the most successful in the several years of the Golf Club's existence. Not until near the close of the school term did golf interest become evident.

Early season practice was diligently carried on by the small squad, the nucleus for the Washington team, which gave such a splendid account of itself when competitive play began. Much keener interest has been displayed this season, and a tournament schedule has already been arranged.

The club for the first time is planning an open tournament in which everyone in school is invited to play.

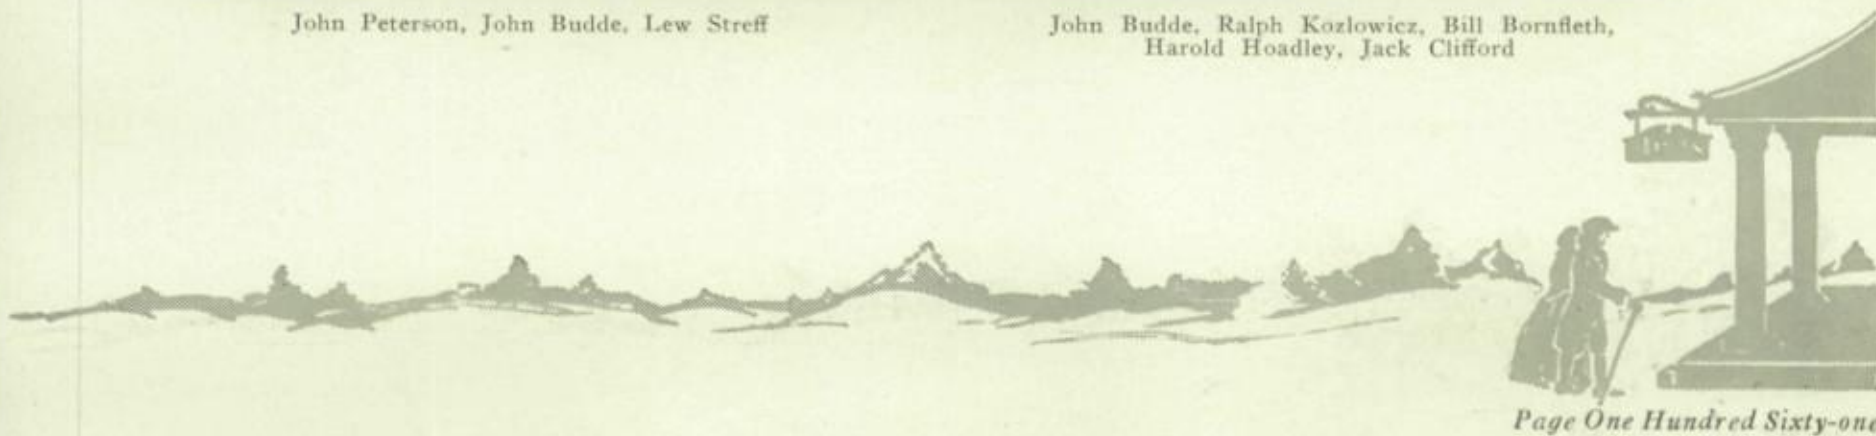

The usual semester elections were held and resulted as follows: President, John Budde; Vice-president, Lew Streff; and Secretary-Treasurer, John Peterson.

Band

John Phillip Sousa honored our band in 1928 by directing it in two selections, and the 1932 band paid tribute to the late march king in the production of fine music.

The band, which was the largest in the history of the school, consisted of seventy-five members. The addition of twenty-five new members in February together with all the experienced material in the band made the organization the best the school has ever had. Complete instrumentation made it necessary to have daily rehearsals during the seventh hour and sectional rehearsals from 8:30 to 9:00 in the morning.

The band played for Open House, the Thanksgiving program, a radio broadcast, and the Twenty-eighth Street Social Center. It was under the direction of Mr. Harry O'Neil, nationally known trumpet virtuoso, who recently composed a new song entitled "Beautiful Wisconsin".

The President of the band was Arthur Koschin; Vice-president, Bob Haehle; Secretary-Treasurer, Ivie Ramin; Librarian, Ben Hoffman.

Our band entered the county tournament held in Milwaukee and received praise for the following outstanding qualities: discipline, accuracy of playing, artistic interpretation, and beautiful tone quality.

Orchestra

The strains of music, heard every seventh hour, are produced by the Senior Orchestra, directed by Mr. Fred Smith. The Orchestra, with a membership of fifty-five students, has no officers, and its members no longer receive awards for service.

On November 13, the Senior Orchestra started its public performances by playing for Open House. The Orchestra favored its audience with several selections: "Egmont Overture", "March Noble", "The Andante from the Surprise Symphony", while the "Swan Song" was played by the string section.

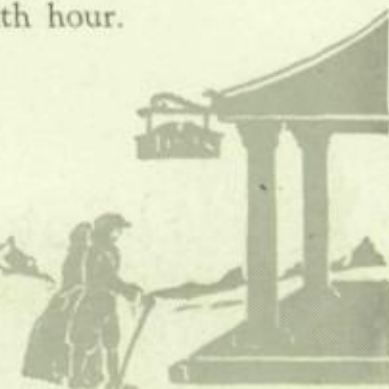

The Clark Street Social Center enjoyed the music of the Senior Orchestra when it played there on December 9. One of the selections rendered that evening was "Overture" from the Operetta "Up in the Air".

The climax of the year was reached when the Orchestra, co-operating with the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, presented the Operetta, "Up in the Air". Work for this production lasted from early in November until January 22. The Senior Orchestra also appeared in various Auditorium announcements.

Music by Washington's Symphony!

Besides the Senior Orchestra, there is an organization, the Junior Orchestra, for the less experienced player. This organization, also under the direction of Mr. Smith, meets daily during the sixth hour.

Boys' Glee Club

Success, the key-word of the Boys' Glee Club for the year 1931-1932, was achieved by its hard work and that of its director, Mr. Smith, who was ever interested in the progress and welfare of each member.

The officers for the first semester were Allen Swanson, President; Curvin Smelser, Vice-President; and Walter Johnson, Secretary-Treasurer. Second semester officers were Walter Johnson, President and Secretary-Treasurer, and Walter Berndt, Vice-President.

The school was musically enriched as a result of the Glee Club's appearances at auditorium meetings. In November, the Glee Clubs sang selections from the opera, "Patience", satirizing the "Romantic Age".

Both Glee Clubs then began the work of preparing for the tuneful and colorful operetta, "Up in the Air", which was presented on January 22. Mr. Maule, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Smith were the coaches.

"America Triumphant" was sung on Washington's birthday and Kipling's "Recessional", in April.

Girls' Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club offers the opportunity to become acquainted with the fundamentals of singing, to appreciate fine music, and to enjoy the comradeship of a friendly group.

In October, the girls appeared with the boys singing selections from Gilbert and Sullivan's opera "Patience", a satire on the aesthetic craze of the 80's. On Washington's birthday, the two clubs sang "America Triumphant". On January 22, both Glee Clubs appeared together in the operetta, "Up in the Air", by Wilson and Morgan. All participants were selected by try-outs. Compensation for the long hours of rehearsal was found in the thrill and excellence of the final production.

The first semester cabinet consisted of Myrtle Laabs, President; Eleanor Krueger, Vice-President; and Julia Tanner, Secretary. Second semester officers were Anita Herman, President; Emma Jungton, Vice-President; and Julia Tanner, Secretary.

"And the mellow music floats—"

Besides several appearances of the club on the stage during the year, the girls sang in conjunction with the Boys' Glee Club and the chorus classes at Washington Park on Arbor Day.

Newsboys' Club

The Newsboys' Club is one of the largest organizations in Washington High School. Under the leadership of Miss Ida Kuehnast, critic; Carl Bachmann, President and Council Representative; Franklin Austin, Vice-President; Robert Maercklein, Secretary; and Robert Bornfleth, Treasurer, the club has made splendid progress.

The club's prominence in the Milwaukee Newsboys' Republic began this year with a hundred per cent subscription to "The Newsboys' World", the club's winning the Annual All-City Newsboys' Track Meet, and Chester Niebler's winning first place in the All-City Newsboys' Oratorical and Declamatory Contest held last spring, for which the club received a painting which adorns a wall of Room 221. At the Annual All-City Newsboys' Swimming Meet Washington "newsies" won third place.

Some members are prominent in the work of the Newsboys' Republic. To maintain the standard of the club, President Carl Bachmann had to rely on several members to assist him. The bulletin board committee kept current notices posted on the club's bulletin board. The scholarship committee maintained the club honor roll and strove to improve the newsboys' intellectual abilities. Participation of the Washington Newsboys' Club in athletic events was in charge of Kenneth Walker of the athletic committee. Interesting programs at the club meetings were planned by Chester Niebler of the program committee.

Newsboys' Club

Mr. Balzer was especially interested in the Newsboys' Club and narrated his adventures during his newsboy days before a meeting of the club. Other interesting speakers were Brigadier-General Paul P. Clemens, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, and Mr. Waldemar C. Wehe, Milwaukee attorney, member of the Milwaukee School Board.

Musical and dramatic talent was developed among the newsboys. The club's membership included Filmore Walker, newly found "Al Jolson," who created a sensation when he sang at one of the meetings. Many Washington "newsies" had a chance to display talents when recruits were called from school clubs all over the city to take part in the Newsboys' Republic pageant commemorating Benjamin Franklin, the first newsboy, and his friendship with George Washington in connection with the nationwide observance of the bi-centennial of the latter's birth.

All boys having a Milwaukee Street Trades badge and permit are required to join the Newsboys' Club and attend all meetings. The Washington High School Newsboys' Club is one of the many clubs formed in all Milwaukee elementary, junior, and senior high schools to assure closer contact of newsboys with the Street Trades Department of the School Board Extension Department.

Girls' Club

"Station F. S. L.—Friendship, Scholarship, and Leadership—featuring the annual report of the Girls' Club's activities." We have the pleasure of announcing that the Girls' Club has succeeded in making this year a boom one.

The two prominent social features of the Senior Girls were the Welcome Tea given by the eighth semester girls to the seventh and the favor returned by a Farewell Tea to the graduates. The Seniors also held a Scholarship Tea for the honor students and did outstanding welfare work at Christmas.

The Juniors' Mother and Daughter Banquet was the outstanding success of the year. In the general welfare work, the Juniors paid the milk bills of numerous dependent families; for this they deserve praise.

Our Sophomores haven't been idle either. They report fine turnouts at their fifth annual Thanksgiving Banquet, evening dancing party at Sherman Boulevard Church, and their novel indoor picnic.

Other brilliant features of the year were a George Washington Party, the Springtime dance, book awards to honor students, and an evening costume party where the girls came as "suppressed desires" instead of with them. Thus the Girls' Club signs off a successful close to the events of the year.

Student Service

Study hall and office monitors are included in the Student Service organization. Every day during the eight periods monitors assist in the office and in study halls. Each room has a monitor and an assistant who are responsible for the discipline, attendance, distribution of notices, and the ventilation and lighting of the room. Their purpose is to guard the halls throughout the entire day. The hall monitors have done much to promote interest in Student Government.

Monitors are chosen on the basis of scholarship, conduct, attendance, character, and personality. Hertha Tromp is the student supervisor.

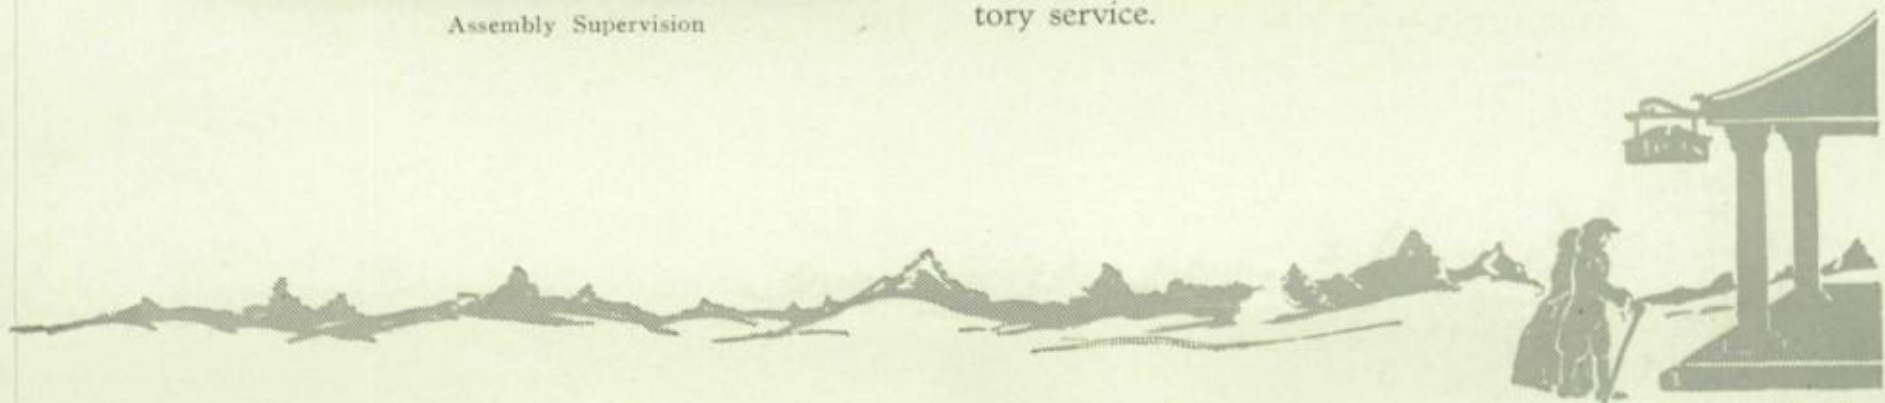

The hall monitors have Mr. Karl Miller as critic with Ruth Oehler as student supervisor the first semester and Catherine Charles, the second semester.

The cafeteria corps is divided into four groups of seven students, each under the student supervisor, Willard Van Engel, and divisional heads, Wilson Schier, John Schlieff, and Kenneth Beckman. The students direct the passing to the cafeteria fourth and fifth hours. Each monitor takes a definite position daily.

Assembly Supervision

At the time of graduation, a service certificate is presented to monitors who have rendered two semesters of satisfactory service.

Stage Crew

New equipment, a new manager, new members with new ideas! All these, and the splendid cooperation of the crew under the direction of Mr. Mereen, critic, are responsible for the success of the crew during the year.

The crew has been credited with the splendid work contributed to such productions as the homecoming stunt, the mum show, the Armistice Day tableaux, the Lincoln and Washington programs, the operetta, and the Senior play. It has also been responsible for the scenery used in Washington Player and Junior Dramatic workshop meetings.

The meetings of the Stage Arts Club were held regularly every second Friday at the homes of the members. Earl Laatsch was elected President and Elmer Wedell, Secretary-Treasurer.

Talks concerning stage-craft were given at each meeting. Mr. Mereen gave several interesting talks on such subjects as the photo-electric cell, the public address system, the vacuum tube, and talking pictures.

The members of the crew during the past year were Earl Laatsch, stage manager; Donald Gruett, assistant; Elmer Wedell, electrician; George Berner, assistant; Edward Stamm, fly-man; Fred Weiss, assistant; Allan Jorgensen, properties; Harold Jaeschke, assistant. The graduating members receiving service keys were Earl Laatsch, Donald Gruett, Elmer Wedell, and Edward Stamm.

Infirmary

In the early days of Washington High School, there was no place where girls could go to receive relief from ailments or first aid for injuries. They were taken to the Domestic Science Rooms for care. In 1920, the Girls' Club undertook to establish an Infirmary in Room 306 and maintained it for several years.

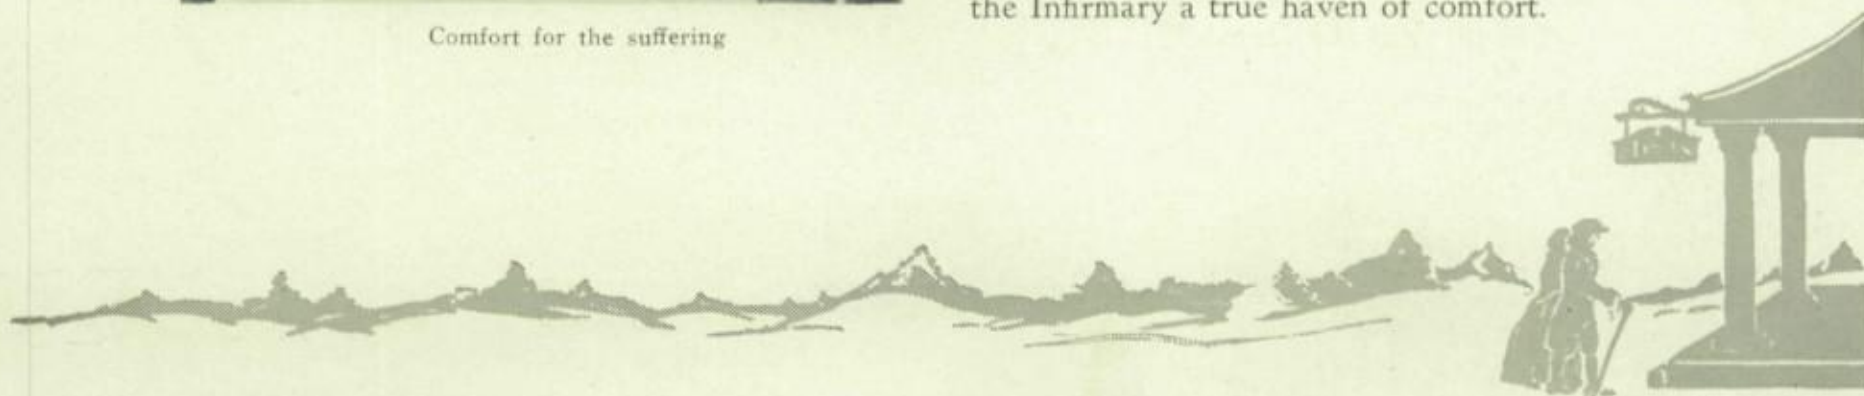

Such accessories as sanitary cots, a stretcher, furniture, draperies, linens, uniforms, and medical supplies were added.

With the rapid growth of the school, the Infirmary had to meet greater demands and became an independent department. During each period an attendant is in charge of the room. Such girls are carefully selected and trained before assuming their duties. Lucille Windler cares for patients during the first hour; Dorothy Miller, second hour; Elizabeth Berthel, third hour; Neoma Tiefenthaler, fourth hour; Edith Lamboy, fifth hour; Irene Pappenheim, sixth hour; Eileen Hannagan, seventh hour; and Gertrude Bartelt, eighth hour. All except Elizabeth Berthel, who replaced Winifred Behling, served the previous semester.

Comfort for the suffering

At the time of graduation, Infirmary attendants are rewarded with a Service Certificate or, in special cases, with a service Key. They give their service cheerfully, always determined to make and keep the Infirmary a true haven of comfort.

Courteously and without ostentation the usher staff is in attendance at all performances in the school auditorium. This group of twenty or more boys under the guidance of Mr. Guy T. Cook has complete charge of taking tickets, distributing programs, and seating patrons at all school productions, ranging from Senior Commencement and Senior Play to State Debate and Intersociety.

The head usher, appointed by Mr. Cook, was, during the September-February semester, Kenneth Beckman; during that period also Kenneth Braun and Wilson Schier acted as doormen, while Earl Ensweiler, supervised the work in the balcony. Due to graduation several new appointments were necessary for the February-June semester. Wilson Schier was promoted to head usher.

The following boys have served as ushers the past year: Kenneth Beckman, Wilson Schier, Earl Ensweiler, Kenneth Braun, Kenneth Walker, Boyd Caniff, Harry Koller, Harry Wild, Alvin Palow, Donald Taugher, Edward Danaher, Herbert Fink, Norbert Wolff, Alvin Trosch, Bob Campbell, Seymore Lefco, Paul Zimmermann, Elias Garfinkel, Carl Bachman, Nathan Paasch, Alex Weiss, Edmund Schmidt, and Arthur Cohen.

Although the ushering squad is not regarded as an organization, it forms a part of Student Service work.

Library and Lost and Found

"A library is the medicine chest of the soul."—The Greeks. New books, old books, red books, blue books—that's the library, the medicine chest of Washington High School. Miss Norma Zartner, librarian, and her assistants—Blanche Budinger, Dorothy Clausen, Ruth Fisher, Shirley Kern, Catherine Kurtz, Doris Peterman, Dorothy Schweitzer, Audrey Stamp, and Evelyn Steltz—have cured the book-knowledge ills of many students the past year. Ruth Fisher, a February graduate, received the service key as a reward. Two of the girls, Blanche Budinger and Doris Peterman, will graduate in June.

The aim of the library is to further interest in books and aid the students in research work through a medium of 17,510 well selected volumes.

Many lost articles are returned to their owners through the work of the Lost and Found Department. Files containing a description of each article are kept, but an article held for six weeks is given to the finder.

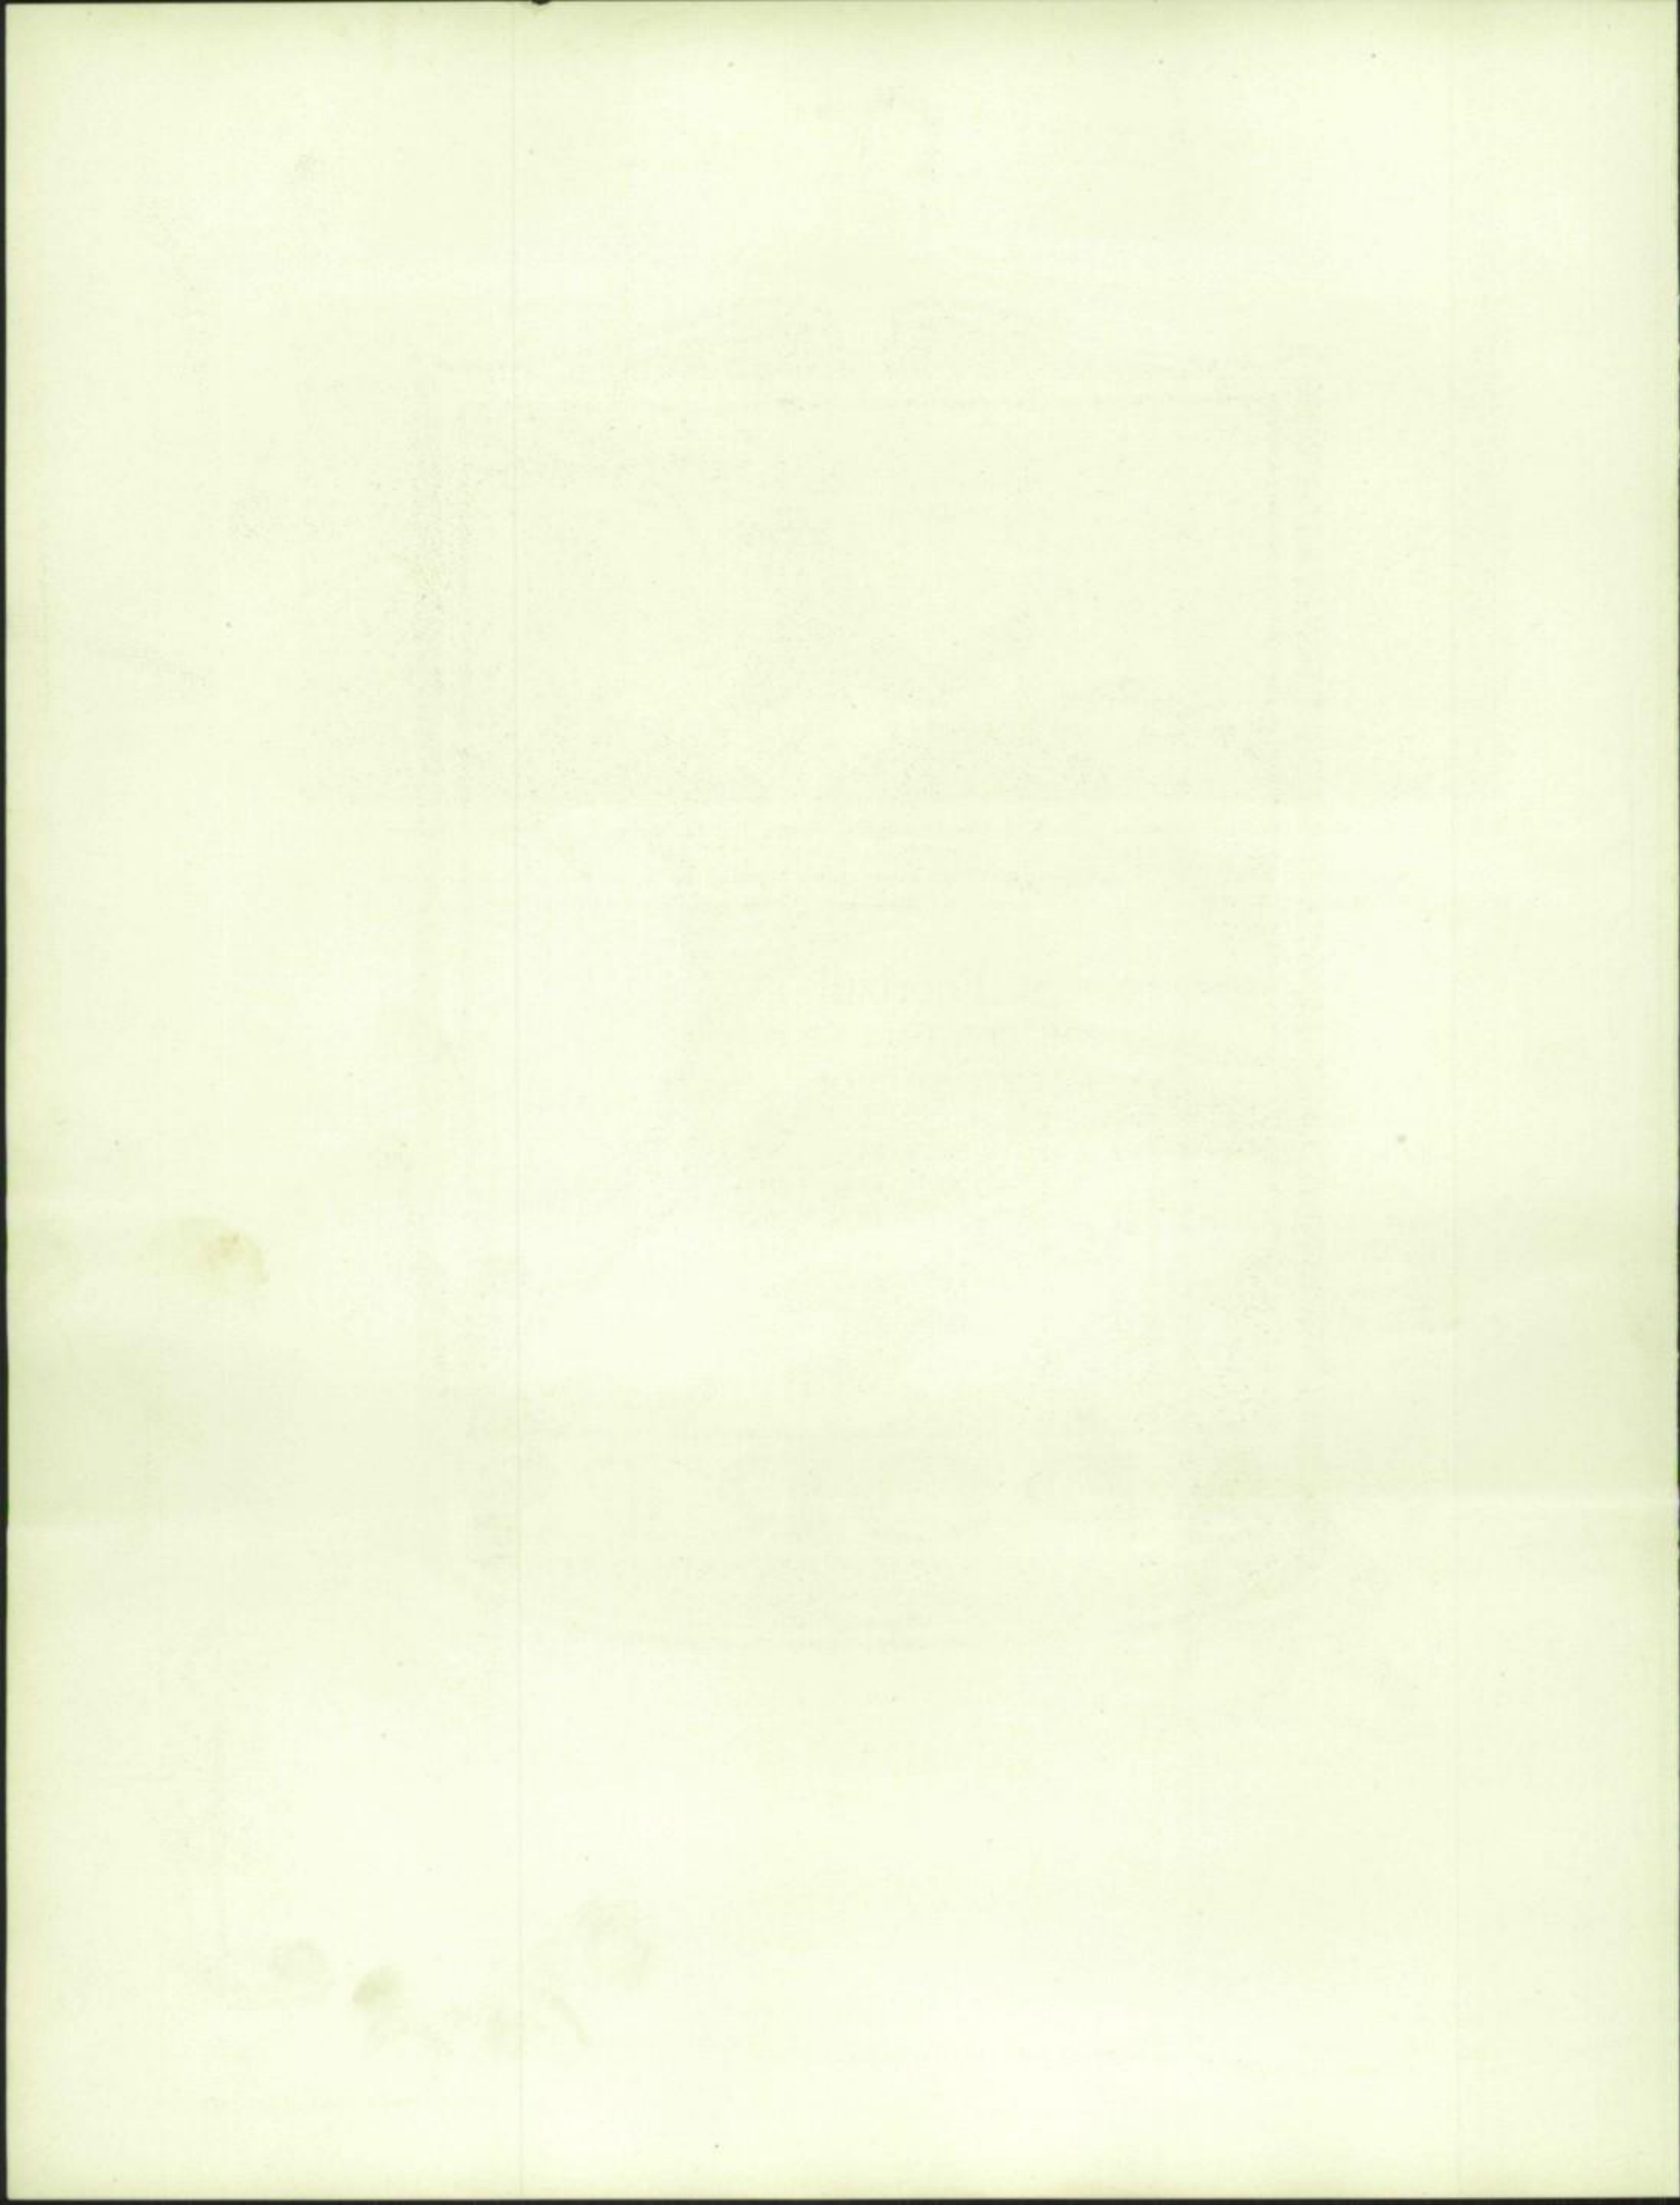

Finders aren't keepers here

The principal purpose of the department is to distribute locker keys. Room 213 contains cabinets in which are keys and duplicates for every locker in the school.

Miss Hilda Bear, faculty director, had Joyce Robinson and Bernice Kunz as her assistants the past year.

LINDNER, halfback

Washington's 1931 football season was crowned with the city championship. Though heavy losses had been suffered in the line by the 1930 graduation, the replacements were strong and gave promise of a successful season. The backfield was still intact from last season, and the team placed on the field for its initial game with South Division appeared good.

It was good. South Division was defeated 25-0, completely humiliated by the expert team of Coach Blackburn. Walter Cruice, running 35, 25, and six yards for spectacular touchdowns, starred with Bob Neubauer, who gave a perfect exhibition of kicking and blocking, besides scoring himself in the fourth quarter. However, it was the strong line, in which Norman Frankenstein, Charles Hyink, and James Wright figured, which won the game. Without a good line the back-field would not have been able to score.

WRIGHT, tackle

MOBERG, end

A close line play in the South game. The officials are announcing the touchdown as the result of Bob Neubauer's smashing through.

Confident of victory, Washington's gridsters met the Lincolmites on October 10, and defeated them, 12-0. Early in the game Sirna of Lincoln fumbled a punt on his 16-yard line; Wright of Washington recovered. Cruice scored on the next play. Lincoln remained on the defensive until the third quarter when it passed and plunged to Pur-Gold 30-yard line. Near the end of the game, Renzel placed an excellent kick off-side on the Blue and Gray two-yard line. Captain Curro, Lincoln, returned a poor 10-yard punt, which Buntrock carried over for the final score.

In its third game, Washington completely outclassed its outstanding rival and co-champion of 1930, Riverside, in a rout 32-0. Cruice thrilled the onlookers with a 50-yard run after intercepting a pass and a 45-yard touchdown when returning a punt.

Neubauer's kicks averaged close to 50 yards and this, with his runs of 28 and 15 yards for touchdowns, ran up the score. The game was played almost entirely in East's territory. The Orange did not get beyond midfield until the Washington lineup was riddled with substitutes. The statistics show Washington's superiority. The team made twelve first downs compared with two for East. Out of five scoring plays alone, Washington covered 175 yards. They tried nine passes and completed four, having two intercepted, while Riverside tried eight, completed one, and had three intercepted.

The decisive victory of 21-0 over West on October 31, practically assured the Pur-Golders of the city championship. As in the other games, it was the Cruice-Neubauer combination that did the scoring, but Frankenstein, Barlow, and Hyink were also outstanding. To Thurner goes the credit for blocking two West punts, both of which led to scores. The Pur-Golders outgained their opponents by a large margin, making sixteen first downs to four by West. In the second quarter, Cruice scored on a long pass and Neubauer on a line plunge of 33 yards. Then Cruice sent a place kick for the only single point of the game. Cruice again raced across the goal in the next quarter for the final score.

In the next game with Tech, on November 14, Washington won its first undisputed championship. Scoring early in the first quarter, Neubauer skirted end for the first touchdown, but the mud-clad field balked the attempt for the extra point and also prevented any more scoring until the third quarter.

It was in this period that Barlow went over for the next points, after Neubauer had brought the ball near the goal. Also, in the last quarter, Barlow showed his effectiveness by hitting the line for another touchdown, while Neubauer added the point on a plunge. During the last few minutes of the game, Koenig made a most spectacular play. Acting as safety man, he returned a Tech punt 40 yards to the goal line, making the final score 25-0.

Playing the last game on a field that was literally a sea of mud, the powerful running attack of the Pur-Golders was practically useless. As Bay View played a very spirited game, they took advantage of the breaks and scored. Soon after Neubauer had plunged for a touchdown, a blocked punt of his was recovered by a Red and Black and carried over Washington's hitherto uncrossed goal. In the last few minutes of play, the Pur-Golders started a 70-yard drive down the field only to be held from scoring by the final whistle, the game ending with the score tied, 6-6.

Second Squad

Coached by Mr. Robert Ewers, the second team again maintained the standard set by previous second teams, passing through a successful season of five wins and one loss. This excellent record was marred only by the defeat at the hands of the Custer High regulars.

Among the outstanding games was the Washington-Tech game. This contest resolved itself into a bitter battle, which Washington won 7-6, despite being outweighed 20 pounds to a man by the more experienced Tech team. Reichert, Loos, and Fredericks starred for the victors.

In the last game of the season the team made their best showing in an excellently played victory over Washington Park of Racine. Showing the results of Coach Ewers' careful training, the seconds bored their victory on two safeties, a touchdown, and a point after. In this game, Rybeck, Vosburg, and Greengo did excellent work.

Among the regulars who gained minor emblems were Kendall, Greengo, Fleder, Chrisien, Marr, Lorenz, Heckl, Benz, Putnam, Rybeck, Loos, Dunn, Vosburg, Burton, Fredericks, Reichert, Davidson, Becker, Purmort, and Windward.

Sophomore Squad

Four games won, two tied, and two lost—that is the record of the sophomore football squad after defeating the Washington second team 12-0 in the last game of the season.

After being carefully trained by Coach Byron Derrwaldt, the soph team started its season on October 6 when it met the Lincoln High School Sophs.

Duane Kime and Vic Sklore starred in this game, Kime several times saving the day with his punting, and Sklore with his backfield play. Numerous fumbles and penalties made scoring impossible for either side.

The Shorewood game proved to be the best of the season. It was a thriller. Early in the game Sklore carried the ball 50 yards for a touchdown. Kime, a dependable quarterback, kicked the extra point. A touchdown by Kime in the third period and one in the fourth completed the score, 20-0.

Captain Ehlert, Muehleisen, Winnie, Klann, Albert, and Roge were among those members of the squad who played the most number of quarters during the season.

Although Coach Meyer's cross country team won few laurels during its season, it gave bright prospects for the next two years. Having lost every one of his state championship team, Coach Meyer was forced to build up this year's team completely of new material. Among the outstanding runners was Bradford Towle. He won the Bay View meet and placed second in the South meet and third in the East meet. Then there were Charles Musch and Ken Allschwang, who did commendable work and will be back next year. Other emblem winners were Ray Lusty, Don Raymore, Ray Guse, and Ed. Wilke.

As an innovation Coach Meyer sponsored two sophomore cross-country runs in an attempt to uncover promising material for the future. One run was held in the fall, while the other was run off in early spring. The first three runners to cross the line in both races received midget trophies.

In the fall running, Kenny Allschwang ran off with first honors. Carol Winsauer galloped over the finish line next, and Lew Garbutt followed, while in the spring classic diminutive Joe Roeder, running like a deer, walked off with the prize cup and in so doing shattered Allschwang's previous mark. Robert was clocked in 9:50.8. Billy Kiefer ended up second in that run, and Bob Ternes took a third. Bill Schoman and Ed Schwalbach came next.

Basketball

For the first time since 1904, basketball made its appearance this year among the city high schools as an interscholastic sport. The plan, under which the season was conducted, divided the city into northern and southern sections. According to this plan, which was introduced by Athletic Director Hoppe, teams played opponents from their circuits only. Two games were staged with each team, one game being played on the visitors' floor with the other clash being held on the home court.

The northern group included North, Custer, Riverside, West, and Washington; while South, Lincoln, Tech, and Bay View formed the southern circuit. The city championship was determined by a play-off between Lincoln and Washington, champions in their respective circuits.

Washington's first game of the season on December 18, resulted in a 16-9 victory over West. A battling offense in the first half and an almost impregnable defense in the second caused the defeat of the Red and White. Individual stars were Ruehl, high scorer with eight points, and Cruice, whose brilliant guarding held the opposing centers to only one basket.

On January 18, The Pur-Golders again were successful, winning 20-12 over a plucky little Custer team. It was not until the second half that the scoring began, and then taking advantage of every opportunity, the home quintet piled up their lead, Grace and Sielaff getting six points each.

The next week the Purple and Gold quintet turned a seeming defeat into victory. Trailing by points in the fourth quarter, a delayed rally in the last three minutes of play defeated East 22-15. Neubauer and Ruehl starred in the brilliant rally.

The winning streak, however, was broken February 5, by North. As a result of the 8-7 upset, Washington closed the first half of their season in a tie with North for honors in the northern circuit. This game marked the end of the varsity careers of Neubauer, Cruice, and Ruehl, all of whom had played most important parts in the Pur-Gold victories.

Starting the new season in the second semester, the home team won an easy victory over West 25-15. Salentine, the new center, showed surprisingly good form. Grace and Thielke did most of the scoring.

Following in order Custer was also defeated by Coach Blackburn's five with the largest score of the season, 42-15.

In the return game with Riverside, Coach Blackburn's squad again scored a close victory. With Cain and Grace leading the attack, the game started with a rush but settled down to a defensive battle. At the half, East led 4-3, but the Pur-Golders soon gained an 8-6 lead which they maintained to the end of the game which resulted in a score of 14-11.

The best form of the season was shown by the team in a decisive 21-17 victory over North on March 11. Purmort stepped into a star role, and with Captain Sielaff and Cain gained a lead in the third quarter which was maintained throughout the game.

Playing before a crowd of 2500 fans at the Marquette gym on March 19, Washington lost the city championship to Lincoln by a score of 21-17. Clever offensive play marked the game, and although the Pur-Golders outscored Lincoln from the floor, they were defeated by free throws. The Lincolnites made nine charity tosses, while the Pur-Golders garnered only three. Captain Fred Sielaff was unable to play because of a broken ankle sustained during practice the preceding week, but his place was ably filled by Flood. Grace and Cain also turned in excellent performances.

Seven members of this year's team, including four major lettermen, remain to form the nucleus of the Pur-Gold squad next season. Hopes run high for a pennant-winning machine in 1933. For center, Coach Blackburn can use either Salentine, who held down the jumping post this past season, or Kescenovitz, with Purmort and Thielke at the running posts. Captain Fred Sielaff is sure to see duty again at guard, while Tom Neubauer, Fred Benz, and Boyd Canniff will be out for action also.

Unlike this year, city high school basketball will be confined next year to one circuit only, thus eliminating a championship play-off.

Swimming

The State Swimming Meet was held at Kenosha High School on Friday, April 22. The meet was won by West Milwaukee with Shorewood and Kenosha following close behind.

Washington's team was severely crippled by ineligibilities and so was unable to make much of showing. Roge, a sophomore, won his preliminary event easily but failed by a few seconds to qualify.

In the 100-yard breast stroke, Bud Schier also won his preliminary but failed to qualify by a few one hundredths of a second. Andy Bauerfeind finished sixth out of a field of 30 diving contestants. The 150 and 200-yard relay teams, composed of Wendelburg, Schier, and Jaastad, easily won their event but were not pressed sufficiently to make the qualifying time.

West Allis took enough second and third places to cop the meet 25-21. Bud Schier in the 100-yard breast, and the relay team, composed of Budde, Radtke, and Schier, took first in their respective events. Kehr and Budde snared second and third in the 100-yard breast; and Hewitt, third in the 50-yard free style.

Both North and Washington were equally crippled by ineligibilities when they met on March 29. North was the victor, 28-27. Bauernfeind and Schier starred with firsts in their events; while Budde, Schier, and Wendelburg were first in the medley relay.

The swimming season which started in spirited fashion was marred not only for Washington but also for North, West, and Tech, when several of their leading point winners were declared ineligible just previous to the State Meet because they had participated in the Municipal Meet.

Golf and Tennis

Adding another championship to Washington's increasing list, the golf team captured the city title in 1931 when it defeated Custer High. The team included Art Davidson, Preston Durbrow, and John Budde. Out of five matches, the team won two, tied one, and lost two. The 1932 squad was without the services of Durbrow and Davidson, who had graduated, but it still had Budde, who started his second season by winning the W. H. S. open tourney at Currie Park with a score of 82.

Richard Weigler, city and state boys' singles champ, was the only returning member of last year's tennis team. However, such players as Cy Horwitz and Ken Draeger forecast another successful season in tennis. In their seasonal debut, the team defeated North Division 5-0. On Saturday April 30, the squad defeated St. John's Military Academy at Delafield, winning both of the doubles matches and two of the five singles.

Track

Although Coach Art Meyer's tracksters did not walk off with any city or state championships in 1931, the showing made by his boys in that year was a decided improvement over former years. In the State Meet at Madison seven Pur-Golders entered the scoring column, while the home team finished fourth in the city attraction with six men gaining points.

One of the most impressive records in both of the meets is found in the work of Ned Sengpiel, diminutive century artist. Sengpiel, after being clocked at 10 seconds in his heat at Madison, was forced to place second to Gibson in the finals. Again in the City Meet, Sengpiel was nosed out by the scantest of margins when Clem Janicki of East ran wild in the 100 and 200-yard dashes.

Wally Cruice, captain of the '31 squad, earned his emblem by placing second in the 440 event, while Ray Lusty garnered a fourth in the half-mile run. Both failed to place in the City Meet. With a second in the state 220-yard dash and two third places in the century and 220 of the city, George Dinges was a valuable aid to the Meyermen. Bud Koenig also placed in the city contest by gaining points in the broad and high jumps.

Two other Pur-Golders who were double winners in '31 were Milton Trost and Alex Le Grand. Trost was good enough in the shot put for a fourth in the State and took an easy second in the Milwaukee clash. Le Grand captured a third and a tie for second in his tries for pole-vaulting honors in the State and City, respectively.

Uncapping the lid of their 1932 track season, Coach Art Meyer's proteges got off to a fair start even though they placed last in their triangular clash with Tech and North on the home campus, April 23. North won the three-way struggle with 46 markers, while Tech and Washington finished with 43½ and 42½ points, respectively.

The big surprise in this meet was the disappointing showing made by the three returning letter men, Ned Sengpiel, Alex Le Grand, and Ray Lusty. None of these men came up to expectations and had they turned in better results, the meet would have gone to the Purple and the Gold.

were Roland Bauer, Harvey Polzin, Rudy Thierfelder, Bruce Brewer, Lawry Skol, Duane Kime, Jack Barlow, Del Wandrey, Tom Neubauer, Bradford Towle, and Kenny Allschwang.

In their second meet of this year, Washington's tracksters were outclassed by Coach Bill Smith's West Division's team on the home campus, April 30. The final score was $64\frac{1}{2}$ - $43\frac{1}{2}$.

After their poor showing in the triangular a week previous, Coach Meyer's lettermen did a reverse and turned in remarkable results. Ned Sengpiel copped first in the 100 and 220-yard dashes and in the broad jump, while Ray Lusty ran the 440 in two seconds short of the city record for a second place. Le Grand tied for first with Kime of this school in the vault. Both jumped ten feet, six inches and retired without fighting for the school supremacy. Another outstanding feature was Brad Towle's running the mile in 4 minutes, 47 seconds for a second place.

Gene Zinser and Rollin Moede scored in the 220; Jack Barlow, in the shot; Willard Beck and Ray Lusty, in the broadjump; Rudy Thierfelder, in the highjump; and Rolland Bauer, in the high and low hurdles.

Intramurals

With the return of basketball into the city conference came the Washington intramural board, a group of twelve students headed by Jack Barlow, president; Jimmy Wright, secretary; Bob Durbrow, scheduler; and Roger Le Grand, statistician and Scroll representative. This board had complete supervision over the school's intramural activities; basketball, boxing, and wrestling.

Both the fistic and mat tournaments were divided into seven classes ranging from 105 pounds to the heavyweight.

The Coaches

It is the opinion of many that Coach Meyer is one of the best track coaches in Milwaukee. He has turned out several teams of championship calibre and a good number of individual stars.

Coach Blackburn has completed his seventh year at Washington with a championship football team and a basketball squad which won the Northern circuit title. He was aided in basketball by Mr. John Cinkosky, a former West Division and Lawrence athlete, who joined the Washington faculty in February. Mr. Cinkosky also had charge of the field events of track under Coach Meyer.

Measuring up to his usual standard, Mr. Robert Ewers again coached the second team, which has maintained an almost undefeated record for several years. Mr. Byron Derrwaldt served double duty as coach of the swimming and sophomore football teams, while Mr. Lauren Sprague gave valuable assistance to Coach Blackburn in the training of the varsity football squad.

Wahiat

With the ending of the school year in June, another year of excitement and enthusiasm is over for the Wahiateers. The volley-ball, basketball, and base-ball teams all entered into the spirit with pep and eagerness under the coaching of Miss Nellie Havens, who has devised a point system in the association. Each event in which the girls partake gives them a certain number of points; for attendance, championship teams, runner-up teams, the girls receive points also. The girl with the highest number of points wins a gold medal, and the girl with the second highest wins a silver medal.

The girls in each championship game receive major emblems which are as follows: for volley-ball, a rectangular purple and gold pad of felt to resemble the net; for basketball, a round purple and gold pad to resemble a ball; for basketball, a diamond shaped pad of the same colors to resemble the baseball diamond. The runner-up teams receive gold emblems with just the purple numerals of the season on them.

Wahiat does not forget girls who like to eat, so they settle the food problem by having a yearly banquet at which they have a noted speaker. After the food has been readily devoured, the girls are awarded their emblems and medals—and what a thrill it all is!

Before each football game, one can see the girls from Wahiat in the halls crying to all those who pass their way, "Buy a Mum right over here!" The girls love to see the purple and gold mums at the games, so they are willing and eager to sell as well as buy them! The school certainly co-operated with the girls, for many boxes of the colorful mums were sold. That's the Spirit, School!

Volleyball

The volleyball games were the first games Wahiat staged at the beginning of the year. In November, 1931, thirteen teams were formed and named under such original names as the "Hawks" and "Muska-Huska-Teers". Each team had three practice games before the elimination contests started. Many exciting and close games were held until finally two teams were left, the "Hawks" and the "Pur-Golders". They played very tight games, having to play three games before a decision could be reached. The "Pur-Golders", who won the title, were composed of Florence Wollmer, captain, Carla Georg, Mary Tudor, Kathryn Miller, Ruth Wehe, Marjorie Babrove, Dorothy Johnson, Eleanore Heimerl, Ethlyride Kohler, Elda Stuewe, Marilyn Kime, Norma Callies, and Eleanor Dittman.

The basketball games were arranged differently this year than ever before in order to give the girls a more even chance of winning a championship. They were arranged in major and minor teams; nine teams in the major league—girls who have had experience, and six teams in the minor league—girls who have little or no experience. The teams in each league had two practice games before the elimination tournament and after the elimination, team three, which won the championship in the major league, was composed of Genevieve Rock, captain, Helen Antross, Ida Dennenberg, Janet Mueller, Bessie Cizon, Evelyn Windler, Florence Wollmer, and Marion Greilach. Team seven, which won the championship in the minor league, consisted of Eleanore Heimerl, captain; Lorraine Kilb, Winifred Hamel, Bernice Loeffler, Ruth Schmidt, Eleanore Coleman, and Helen Scheer.

The baseball games were held in the latter part of the season. Nine teams were formed, each bearing a signature name. The teams had two practice games, after which, followed the elimination tournament.
